ERA advocates suffer another setback

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Advocates of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution suffered another setback in the Missouri Legislature as it was held up in the House while a subcommittee studies Missouri laws on equal rights.

The announcement came at the end of three hours of testimony Monday night by opponents of the measure.

A bill to prevent additional taxation on public utility services was approved today for final consideration in the House.

The bill would keep counties, cities and other political subdivisions from taxing utility revenues in a way that makes the total tax on the service more than the ten per cent authorized. Voter approval would be needed to assess a higher tax.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. George E. Murray, R-Creve Coeur, said it would eliminate a tax on a tax and provide "truth in taxing."

Last week the ERA failed to make it out of a Senate committee and a House Democratic caucus voted not to support it.

Rep. George Dames, D- O'Fallon, who was appointed the subcommittee chairman, said, "this comes as a complete surprise to me ... I hadn't heard anything about this."

Dames said he did not know when the subcommittee's first meeting would be, but said the committee would have to work "pretty fast" to get it out this legislative session.

"It depends on how many men the committee on legislative research assigns to help us," he said.

Rep. Earl L. Schlef, D-Dellwood, who led the House opposition to the amendment, said the referral to a subcommittee was a fatal blow to the ERA.

"I think it's dead," he said. "It's kind of what you'd call studying it to death."

Rep. Sue Shear, D-Clayton, who sponsored the House resolution to approve the amendment, said she did not see the subcommittee referral "as a defeat."

"I think it was an attempt to kill it," she said, "but I don't think it will succeed."

At the end of the hearing, Schlef recommended the appointment of an interim committee to meet after the legislative session to study Missouri laws on discrimination and make its report in January of 1974.

For the ERA to be added to the U.S. Constitution, 38 states must ratify it in the next six years. Twenty-six states have approved it.

Earlier Monday, the House killed a bill to make it a misdemeanor for an employer to default on retirement fund payments for employes, and the Senate approved for final consideration a bill to give the University of Missouri-Rolla the old Division of Geological Survey and Water Resources building in downtown Rolla, and a bill to crack down on criminal conspiracies.

The Geological Survey abandoned the three-story building in Rolla for a new office in Buehler Park. The bill merely transfers title to the University of Missouri curators.

The retirement fund bill, sponsored by Schlef, was defeated on a voice vote after opponents charged it would amount to jailing persons because they failed to pay a debt.

The anti-conspiracy bill, passed 21-8, would "add the tools to fight organized crime," its sponsor, Sen. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington, said.

The bill would make it a felony to "agree, conspire, combine or confederate to commit murder, rape, robbery or arson." An agreement would have to be accompanied by an "overt" act. The punishment would be 2-5 years in prison.

The House readied for final passage bills to include foster care recipients under the list of needy persons receiving medical assistance and to relieve municipalities on the cost of tuberculosis patients by doubling the amount of state aid to $30 per day for treatment.

A bill introduced in the Senate would require public utilities to take steps within three years to recover fees for service or equipment.

Bills introduced in the House would:

—Make it unlawful to make or possess telecommunication or telephone equipment for the purpose of avoiding lawful charges for such service.

—Allow savings and loan associations having capital stock to be incorporated.

—Allow reparation benefits to persons injured in traffic accidents, paid without regard to fault through insurance contracts.

—Require the state to pay the costs of any new expenses put upon political subdivisions as a result of new legislation, when there is no additional source of revenue available for the subdivisions to meet the added costs.

—Make the deadline for payment of commercial vehicle licenses Feb. 15 each year instead of Jan. 15.

Burlison named to appropriation seat

WASHINGTON— Rep. Bill D. Burlison, Missouri 10th District Democrat, appointed to the Subcommittee on Agriculture of the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives, a subcommittee which has jurisdiction over funding of farm programs.

The full Appropriations Committee, on which Burlison now serves, controls the purse strings of the federal government and is considered the most influential of House committees. Appropriations bills originate on the House side of Congress.

Burlison now has the seat once held by the late Clarence Cannon, who holds the record of 41 years servie as a Missouri congressman, many as chairman of the powerful Committee on Appropriations.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton has been named to the Appropriations Committee on the Senate side. "I am honored that this is the first time that Missouri has had both Senate and House representation on appropriations since the late Sen. Harry Truman and Rep. Cannon served in the early 1940s", Burlison said.

As an example of the desirability of the assignment, Burlison pointed to Congresswoman Edith Green, who has been in the House for 18 years and was next in line for chairmanship of the Committee on Education and Labor. She gave up the position this year to start at the bottom of the Appropriations Committee.

"I have accepted the position", Burlison said, "because my four years of experience in the Congress and my discussions with National leaders clearly tell me that I can do more for my district by serving on the committee. And I will have a stronger voice for farmers with selection to the Agriculture Subcommittee. There is also great potential for national leadership," he concluded.

Rejoices at nephew's return

Charleston aunt thanks God for POW's release

CHARLESTON — Col. Robinson Risner, 48, nephew of Mrs. Harry Warren of Route Two, was the first man off the second plane to land at Clark Air Force Base in the Phillipines. And for his aunt, it was a day of thanksgiving.

Risner, missing since his plane failed to return from a mission over North Vietnam in September of 1965, was designated by fellow prisoners to express their gratitude to President Richard Nixon.

"All the men would like to meet you personally and express their gratitude for what you have done," Risner told the President by telephone. Nixon reportedly answered he would make himself available any time after the POWs have had time with their families.

Mrs. Warren did not remember the exact time she heard her nephew was among the first POWs returning from Vietnam, but she said she stayed by her television in hopes of seeing him. "He has changed very little and it was wonderful to see him. I cried all day Monday with happiness not only for him and his family but also for the families of the other men."

Risner's wife Kathleen, who now lives in Oklahoma City with their five sons, was called later Monday by Col. Risner. "He sounded just like himself. I was afraid he would be tense. We weren't. He laughed a lot, she said."

The fighter- bomber pilot, the first person to receive the Air Force Cross while still living, made headlines in 1957 by setting a coast- to-coast and trans- Atlantic speed record in an F-100-F Sabre-Jet.

Councilmen reconsider building of golf course in recreational complex

By RON PORTER

City Council members are quietly reconsidering the feasibility of building a nine-hole golf course in the city's 140- acre recreational development near the airport.

Mayor Frank Ferrell said the primary reason for the reconsideration is the cost of building it.

The complex is being built with a $200,000 federal matching grant. The city must match the grant with its own funds; money which the city is finding difficult to scrape together.

Ferrell described the problem as one of priorities. The baseball diamonds come first, he said, then the tennis courts and then the golf links.

The city does not have an estimate of the golf course cost. However, when applying for federal funds, the city estimated it would cost about $31,000.

Bob Stearnes of the architectural firm of Buchmueller, Whitworth and Foust Inc., who worked on the initial design of the recreational complex, said the estimate does not include the total cost of the course.

The estimate did not include the golf course's share of the park's support facilities, such as utilities, parking lots, roads and landscaping, Stearnes said.

The true cost of the golf course must include a share of the cost of these, Stearnes added. He said he could not give a more accurate estimate of the cost.

Ferrell said lighting might not be installed as a means of cutting down on the cost.

City Manager Jim Huff said the lighting is probably the second biggest expense in building the golf course. The greens would be the most expensive, he said.

Another problem facing the golf course is the problem of maintaining the area. Ferrell said it might cost as much as $20,000 per year for the city to keep the course in playing condition.

Ferrell stressed that the council is still studying the problem and has made no decision yet.

The park will also include tennis courts, baseball diamonds, a fishing lake and picnic areas.

City officials say they hope to have the baseball diamonds in operation by this spring.

Commission seeks bids on Malone work

The Missouri Highway Commission has called for bids on a project to improve 2.5 miles of Highway 62 along East Malone Avenue from Main Street east on Route AA in Miner.

Bids are to be opened at 10 a.m. Feb. 23 in Jefferson City.

The project calls for grading, constructing culverts, traffic signals at the Pine Street intersection and widening and resurfacing the road, along with any incidental work needed.

If the bids are accepted, work probably would be started in the spring and be completed in the fall, according to Lionel Murray, District 10 engineer.

Bids on the project had been called previously but had been rejected because the commission deemed them to be too high. Murray said if the bids are too high this time, the project will probably go back to the drawing boards for redesign.

If this occurs, it will be another two months before a call for new bids can be issued, Murray said.

Kaiser's bond set at $5,000

Bond of $5,000 for Jimmy Kaiser Jr., charged with first degree murder, was set this morning in Magistrate Court by Judge Lloyd Briggs on the recommendation of Stephen L. Taylor, assistant prosecuting attorney.

First degree murder charges were filed against Kaiser, 34, in connection with last Wednesday's shooting death of Carol Alvarez.

Kaiser was taken into custody by sheriff's deputies Wednesday after taking Miss Alvarez to Missouri Delta Community Hospital. He was charged Thursday and has been in the Scott County jail at Benton.

Miss Alvarez, 24, who reportedly had been living with Kaiser at 203 Selma St. in Sikeston was pronounced dead of a bullet wound in the head at 11:40 a.m. Wednesday upon arrival at the hospital.

Kaiser told deputies that he and Miss Alvarez were arguing in his car on Highway 61 between Sikeston and McMullin when she put the gun to her head and shot herself. He said the argument started because she wanted him to return to California.

A charge against Gary Paul Storey, 900 Vernon St., of stealing a car from Earl Singleton on Feb. 2 was continued until Feb. 27.

Rose Turner was sentenced to 60 days in county jail and placed on probation under a parole and probation officer for one year after she pleaded guilty to charges of fighting with Larry White on Jan. 29 at Scott County Central High School.

A preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 20 for White after he pleaded not guilty to fighting with Miss Turner.

Preliminary hearing for Edward Hopgood of Bernie, charged with stealing a car from David Alexander on Oct. 23, was set for March 13 and bond set at $500.

Bond of $500 was set and a preliminary hearing was scheduled on March 13 for Ricky Ayers of Bernie on charges of stealing a car from George A. Norman on Jan. 4.

A preliminary hearing was set on March 13 for Mike Jennings of Bernie and bond was fixed at $500 on charges of stealing two tires and two mag wheels from Satterfield's Auto Repairs on Jan. 1.

After pleading guilty to charges of operating a motor vehicle while operator's license was revoked, Clay Faye Graham was sentenced to 90 days in county jail. Graham is to surrender himself to the sheriff's department on Feb. 20 at 8 a.m.

Case was dismissed on payment of costs by William H. Vaughn on charges of driving while license revoked.

Fred Eugene Morgan of Oran, charged with speeding, was fined $18 and costs.

Chief calls for drug education

NEW MADRID — Education of children and parents and strong law enforcement measures were cited as means of suppressing narcotics by Webster Grovers Police Chief Fred Zinn and Capt. James Seavatta, chief of detectives, who spoke at a public drug abuse program Monday night at New Madrid High School.

Zinn reported on the Turn in a A Pusher (TIP) program used in his city and said that although the program hasn't reduced narcotics, it has sent the pushers away and transferred the drugs to other communities.

Under this program, supported by the Kiwanis Club, an informer is paid $100 if he provides information on which a warrant can be issued for a pusher. Women seem to be the best informers, Zinn said.

"We know how to get people out of town if we can't hook them," Zinn said.

Other successful measures noted by Zinn was undercover work by detectives and police women. Also, the schools now have a deputy juvenile officer and a police detective on duty 40 hours a week.

An educational program has been started in the schools. However, Zinn said the surface has barely been scratched.

"Police officers make better teachers about narcotics and marijuana simply because they know what they are talking about," Zinn said.

Capt. Seavatta listed three basics in dealing with narcotics.

"The people involved in drugs have to know that if they carry drugs, they are going to get arrested. We are not concerned about search and seizure laws. We are going to get them.

"Next, if a person voluntarily comes to the police and says they are involved with drugs and that they want to get out, then they must know they won't get "busted".

"You must have a prosecutor who will put these people in jail if they have been picked up for possession more than one time. This is something you have to have.

"Support your police and prosecutor. You can't fool around with drugs in this county," Seavatta said.

During a question and answer period, Seavatta said, "If a parent should discover his child is involved with drugs, the child should be taken to the police department to talk to someone who knows about drugs, not a doctor or a minister, but someone who knows what they are talking about."

At the close of the meeting, Pros. Atty. Hal E. Hunter Jr. thanked the people for coming and said there was a thought the group should take to their kids: "The good Lord gave you one mind and one body to last all of your life. If you misuse it or abuse it, you have shortened the use of that one mind and body you have."

Rotarian Sam Bodine, who was in charge of arrangements, welcomed the crowd of nearly 400 and said the attendance was indicative of the interest in the drug abuse problem.

"Hopefully, we can learn to cooperate and solve our problem for a better community," he added.

Throughout the U. S. today, there is a shortage of the kind of employes for which employers are looking. To be sure, there are some people who do not have jobs -- and many of them wouldn't hold a job if they started on one.

But employers are ready to make an extra effort to find a place in their organizations for the right kind of young man or woman. An Idaho newspaper, a few years ago, described this employe in an editorial entitled, "No Experience Necessary":

"He must have a clean face, clean habits, and a clean heart. Need not know how to roll a cigarette or how beer tastes, and if he's not up to date on all the smutty jokes, his ignorance will be overlooked.

"He must be a boy who treats his mother and sister -- and every other boy's mother and sister -- with respect, and does not refer to his father as the 'old man.'

"He must be truthful, prompt, obedient, and industrious. He must make his employer's interest his interest, and never be afraid of earning more than his wages.

"He is wanted everywhere -- in law, in medical practice, in the counting room, and to run great public works. The people who will pay big salaries are looking for him ..."

What we are trying to say is that the jobs are there, waiting for intelligent, hardworking, energetic young men and women.

Far too many are more concerned over what a job will mean to them rather than what they can mean to the job and to the employer. They somehow forget that employers must make a profit to stay in business, and that their principal task is to insure that the employer does make a profit.

There are plenty of jobs waiting for the right kind of young people. Your attitude toward work determines the degree of success you will achieve.

LASER TO WEED OUT A PEST

A death ray may still belong more to the realm of science fiction than to fact, but a former Army Corps of Engineers scientists has just patented the closest thing to it yet.

Dr. Ralph A. Scott Jr. has invented a device and method for destroying water hyacinths and other water plant pests by means of laser energy. By selection of the proper level of laser energy, weed control may also be effected for land plants, such as along highway and railroad rights of way.

("Put your weapon on 'stun,' Mr. Spock.")

According to Scott, plant life is wilted almost immediately after irradiation, and is completely destroyed in 8 to 12 weeks. Since no chemicals are released into the environment, the problem of air and water polution is avoided.

Today, weeds. Tomorrow ...?

NEW YORK (AP)- Memory is a golden key.

It opens the portal to the past where, row on row, all our yesterdays are stored. Some are lovely, some are drab — but all of them are there.

There is a release and refreshment of the soul in revisiting, now and then, the days that were. The wise man keeps the golden key of memory bright not rusty.

I'd say your key is still pretty bright if you can look back and remember when —

A boy and a girl in love could carve their initials in a tree without upsetting the woodland ecology.

Childhood was more innocent. You could have a fine time chasing cabbage butterflies in a meadow or squirting the hot dust of a rural road between your bare toes on a beautiful summer day.

The only ones absent from church on Sunday were those too sick to go.

If you told your mother you were too ill to go to school, you inevitably had to stay in bed and take a big dose of castor oil. Before anyone in the family ever went to see a doctor about any ailment, he had to give castor oil a chance to work its miracles. The only exception was a broken arm.

No girl who valued her reputation would let herself be seen sitting in the last row of seats in the movie with her beau's arm around her.

A man had a cushy job if he didn't work up a sweat on it six days a week.

Women who prided themselves on never having tasted a drop of liquor in their life sometimes got mildly tipsy in the afternoon drinking a female tonic that contained more alcohol than they knew.

When the lord of the house raised his voice in anger, the cat ran and hid under the bed and the dog tried to paw his way out the back door. But despite this, everyone in the family knew that Mama was the real boss most days.

Anybody who didn't eat three full meals a day was thought to have a finicky appetite.

Anybody who got a passport to visit a foreign country was looked up to in the neighborhood with some awe. Most folks had never traveled more than 100 miles from their birthplace.

Marriages were supposed to last a lifetime—and generally did.

Those were the days — remember?

A LITTLE ENCOURAGEMENT DUE

Cancer is one of the most dreaded of human afflictions that has yet to give up its secret to the curative probing of science. Under a Senate resolution sponsored by Senator Ralph Yarbrough of Texas and 53 other U. S. Senators, a committee of eminent scientists and laymen has been granted the funds to conduct a cancer study and "recommend to the Congress and to the American people what must be done to achieve cures for the major forms of cancer by 1976 ..." The hope of Senator Yarborough and others is that the quest of the committee for a cancer cure might lead "toward the creation of a new administrative agency which would guarantee that the conquest of cancer becomes a highly visible national goals."

The effort of the Senator and his colleagues deserves the highest commendation. But, recognition of congressional good works in this instance is somewhat tempered by the long years of congressional antagonism toward the U. S. prescription drug industry. This industry, by its own research and development efforts, has conquered a good share of the most dreaded diseases of mankind. In 1970, the prescription drug industry will spend over $600 million of its own funds, an amount greater than its probable net income, on medical research. In spite of drug industry research spending, 1969, as a spokesman for the industry observed, "... was the all-time low point in new medicinal product introductions in the United States ..."

Constant harassment of the industry has played no small part in the increasing difficulty of introducing new lifesaving drugs. A new "highly visible" search for a cancer cure might also bring into higher visibility the important of encouraging, rather than discouraging, the industry that has made a business of pushing forward the frontiers of medical knowledge.

THE CLEAM ATOM

Nuclear energy promises to be one of the greatest factors in solving the air and water pollution problem once people accept it fully as an ally in the battle to preserve the environment in the face of rapidly expanding population pressure.

In a region of the country -- Florida -- where each month 10,000 new permanent residents are added to the state's population, a local power company is devoting a major part of a $600 million construction program to the development of a nuclear electric plant. As part of its story of telling people about nuclear energy, it has sent out a release that attempts the most difficult job of describing the atom in terms understandable to the layman. First, it says, "... just how small is an atom? So small that 36 billion - billion could be placed on the head of one pin. It's a tiny world. But only tiny in size. The mass of the atom ... is so dense that if it were the size of a drop of water, it would weigh 2 million tons." The release points out that because of this incredible density there is an enormous amount of energy in an atom. A single small pellet of nuclear fuel -- measuring only seven sixteenths of an inch long and one quater inche in diameter -- is equal to the energy in 100 tons of coal.

It is just such concentration of energy as this that can be the savior of the human race. The day is coming when orthodox means of producing energy would bring insoluble pollution problems. As the power company's release points out, "In a nuclear plant -- powered by the atom -- there is no burning nor any combustion of any kind ... there is no smoke or soot of any kind. There are not even any chimneys." In short, the peaceful use of the atom is an important part of the answer to pollution and the energy requirements of a nation that has neither the desire nor the capacity to turn the clock back 30 or 40 years.

SOME HARSH VIEWS

Nation's Business reports, "Campus turmoil has cut deeply into businessmen's enthusiasm for furthur contributions to colleges." It quotes a number of more or less typical businessmen's reasons for terminating contributions to colleges and universities. They range from, "I will not contribute to irresponsible college administrators or teachers" to, "They can burn down all the million - dollar facilities they desire. I just won't pay tc rebuild them." Another businessmen believes business should support only those colleges that teach students "to be better Americans and useful citizens."

These are harse views, coming as they do from business leaders and citizens on whom the U.S. educational system must depend for support. On the other hand, they may result in the raising of educational standards to meet the needs of millions of young and serious Americans onwhose shoulders will fall the responsibility of becoming tomorrow's leaders in business, industry and government.

WE WANT ELECTRICITIY

Writing in Look magazine, Mr. D. Bruce Mansfield discusses "More Electric Power: How on Earth Do We Get It?". At the start, he tells of an amusing incident -- of how his hometown paper carried a story of, "A group yearning to flee the grittier aspects of civilization ..." They publicized their hope to form a commune away from the "modern things that pollute the earth" but, they added a postscript, "We want a place with electricity."

Mr. Mansfield in this simple anecdote shows why environmental purists must eventually -- and the sooner the better -- make their peace on a reasonable basis with technology. The self- defeating conflict between the more extreme environmentalists and public demand for technology's affluence have presented a problem for the electric industry that can hardly be exaggerated. In Mr. Mansfield's words, "It means that we must try to satisfy a public simultaneously demanding vast quantities of low-cost power and perfect reliability while that same public moves militantly to blow power projects and impel the allocation of an ever- larger percentage of the construction dollar to beautification and anti-pollution controls.'

Mr. Mansfield in the course of his discussion reveals both what the power industry has done and is doing in behalf of the ecology, as well as in behalf of producing needed electric energy. He believes the seemingly contradictory needs of man and the environment can be "... served in harmony." He concludes, "If ecologists and technologists will only agree that human beings always come first, we'll find the power and the glory together."

A NICE DISH

Three married couples were ordering dinner at an Italian restaurant.

One of the husbands turned to his wife and asked, "Honey, how do you pronounce that Italian dish I'm so crazy about?"

Very dryly his wife answered, "You pronounce it just like it's spelled — Gina Lolobrigida!"

COMMUNIST PROMISES ARE WORTHLESS

The Soviet Union is no longer able to hid the fact that communist promises are worthless. For more than 50 years, communist dictators have had iron control of the nation with the largest area of any on earth and have been promising every five years to ease the weary Russian citizens' dreary existence.

Promises remain unkept and the Russian people continue to live without sufficient clothing, housing and food. It is not just the poor people in Russia who live this way, it is the average citizen. Only the few communist party bosses have luxuries of the kind that our good working people consider necessities of life.

Now the Russian consumer is faced with another sharp cutback in production of goods he has been promised for so long. To help sugar the bad-tasting pill, the controllers of the "planned economy" are raising the minimum wage of Russian workers to $85 per month. That is $85 per month, not $85 per week.

The communist government wishes to increase the population, but a working-class family with two children already is living in one room and sharing bath and kitchen with one or more other families. Under these conditions, it is no wonder why families do not have many more children. The fact is that the communist system simply cannot produce the necessities of life. Freedom enthusiasts can use this ammunition in praising Republic USA and our profit- motive system. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

No Skid Rows:
Longshoremen's Chiefs Urging 'Super- Seniority'
For Ex- POWs In Every Industry and NASA
By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK-- Once, as president of the Overseas Press Club I introduced to a luncheon audience (which the following session was to hear a New York lawyer, Dick Nixon) that bantam mobile powerhouse, the longshoremen's union chief, Teddy Gleason. He arose, grinned and averred that it wasn't always he could get into a respectable part of town because it wasn't always he had shoes fit to wear-- or any shoes.

Well, if sentiment still is "relevant," all God's children should have such shoes. The worldwide sage of the trip-hammer fight made by Gleason and his executive vice president, Johnny Bowers, to free the prisoners of war should fully be told-- but first there now is his and Bower's newest campaign to fit the freed men into dignified jobs, work, or executive suites commensurate not only with their tortures but with their scientific and aeronautic skills.

Gleason will urge his fellow American union leaders to offer the released war prisoners swift employment as soon as they have recovered and readjusted and he wants them offered a "super- seniority" in any project, in any research and development operation or plant, and in any other skilled plant installation over which labor has jurisdiction or influence.

Most of the prisoners are pilots. Thus, officers. So they are competent mathematicians, swift interpreters of instrument panels, computer programming potentials, chain of command executives and all highly literate.

As the POWs head for the 32 military and naval hospitals in 20 states, Gleason is heading for the AFL— CIO Executive Council's mid- winter session in Bal Harbour, Fla. There within the closed council sessions, in which he sits as a national AFL— CIO vice president, he will move to make this official AFL— CIO policy. In the council there has not been unanimity over support of the war.

There is the so- called "hard hat" bloc, from which Secretary of Labor Pete Brennan comes. And there is the minority "Labor For Peace" group. But Gleason expects little opposition.

"The least we can do is to start the released prisoners, husbands and sons with a seniority equal to the amount of time they spent in those Hanoi prisons, isolation cells, and torture chambers," Teddy said. "Some of them have been in those holes for eight years. I'll go to Red Smith (president of the International Assn. of Machinists) whose union has a lot of the aeronautics and space work.

"To me, the prisoners are heroes. And let's not forget their families and the brutal years which were marked by persecution at home, midnight phone calls calling husbands and sons dirty names, reporting them dead when they were alive."

As Gleason and Bowers see it, there are fine well paying and dignified soul- satisfying jobs available in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and in the aerospace industry, some 75 per cent of which is covered by the Machinists' union.

A huge section of NASA's operations are in inner space. There are hundreds of research and development projects. These researches span the spectrum from aircraft "hovering" to supersonic flights, some four to five times the current speeds.

The developments are anywhere from seal level to the atmosphere. There are experiments in silencing jet engines in short take- off landing (STOL), seeking new options in aeronautics--- which will handle airport congestion as passenger flights increase 50 per cent in the '70s---and there is the outerspace planet exploration project.

Gleason and some Machinists' officials don't foresee the buming of any NASA or aerospace employes. There are at most some 600 returning prisoners now. Many of them will stay in. Many of them will have their own thoughts on business and work.

Some of them may permit the U.S. Labor Dept.'s Employment Service (USES) to help them as the displaced aerospace and engineers were two years ago.

There's $500,000 available for this in the Department. USES men already have made the rounds of receiving hospitals. They talked with teams of doctors, psychiatrists and special Army personnel men and women. But a government operation is a government operation.

Just as Gleason and a special American longshoremen's union team cleared the Saigon docks when they were clogged and heavily pilfered some seven years ago--- so the ammunition and food could be passed along swiftly--- so Gleason wants the POWs' homecoming not to be clogged with red tape.

Teddy and Johnny have little respect for some federal departments. They still recall that the current Secretary of Defense, Elliot Richardson, when he was Undersecretary of State in 1970, told them the Soviets had no influence in Hanoi. That was when they were offering to break their boycott and handle one Russian passenger ship in this harbor in exchange for every five POWs that Moscow could convince Hanoi to release.

Now it is Secretary Richardson's Defense Dept. which is handling the returnees. And the longshoremen leaders are taking no chances. They want to see the POWs' new freedom matched with economic freedom.

The longshoremen leaders don't want any ex- POW some years from now turning up as the tragic hero of some skid-row feature with a "look what happened to this hero" angle.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Army Choppers for Cops?
FAA Standing in the Way
By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON— Hundreds of helicopters, most of them perfectly airworthy, have been cosigned to the scrap heap at Davis Montain Air Force Base in Tucson, Ariz., while law enforcement agencies around the country are paying through the nose for new police helicopters.

The police units, with few exceptions, haven't been able to cut through the red tape to acquire surplus military choppers. This is forcing them to buy new helicopters for $60,000 to $100,000 apiece when they could refurbish an old battle chopper for a few thousand dollars.

There is evidence, moreover, that the Federal Aviation Administration is cooperating with the big aircraft manufacturers to keep the bargain surplus helicopters out of police hands. Here's how they work it:

The FAA won't issue certificates of airworthiness for the surplus choppers unless the manufacturers issue new data plates. Bell Helicopter, for example, explains that it cannot determine without a total factory overhaul whether a chopper still meets Bell's specifications.

Bell won't risk damage claims, therefore, by issuing a data plate. Without this, the FAA won't certify the aircraft. And insurance companies won't grant reasonable liability rates without FAA certification.

Representative Ogden Reid, D- N.Y., has suggested in a private letter to FAA Administrator John Shaffer that there is a simple solution. "I have checked with the services involved and have been assured," he wrote, "that the log history of each helicopter is readily available and that either the manufacturer or the FAA could easily determine whether the craft is airworthy from this and some personal inspection...."

Reid suggests suspiciously that FAA's refusal to issue the certificates "is based on a technicality which seems designed to protect the market for new helicopters rather than the public interest."

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

An unpublished study exposes the cozy relationship between the Food and Drug Administration and the businesses it is supposed to oversee.

Such commercial giants as Swift and Company; Smith, Kline and French; and Libby, McNeil and Libby have been able to place top executives in watchdog posts inside the agency.

The study, by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, reveals that some 22 of the FDA's top 54 officials have held key positions in FDA— regulated industries or in front organizations which cater to these industries.

A typical case: Dr. Marion Finkel came from the large drug firm of Merck, Sharp and Dohme to become deputy director of the Bureau of Drugs. She acknowledged to us that she set to work in her new post reviewing four Merck drugs for marketing licenses. Three of the Merck drugs were subsequently approved.

Dr. Ogden Johnson, head of FDA's Division of Nutrition, came from A.E. Staly Manufacturing Co., an Illinois soy product producer, which is actively researching new soy food. At the FDA laboratories under Johnson's control, the FDA currently conducts tests on the nutritional value of soy meal and soy protein.

Other FDA officials intend to return to the drug and food industries when they leave the government. Typical is Dr. Virgil Wodicka, who formerly worked for Hunt-Wesson, Libby and Ralston Purina, but is now FDA's director of the Bureau of Foods. He had made no bones about his plans to return to the industry when his government service is completed. Even the most noble of men might avoid doing battle with a corporation which holds the purse strings to his later employment. Others more inclined to go to the well with big business might even be seduced by what FDA insiders call "the deferred bribe."

INTELLIGENCE ITEMS

SECRET ATTACK— Pathet Lao troops, attacking in battalion strength a few days ago, overran a key U.S. intelligence outpost in the remote northeastern corner of Laos near the Burmese border. Knocked out by the attack was the Central Intelligence Agency's main intelligence base at Nam Yeu for operations into Communist China. Sabotage and reconnaisance teams, operating out of Nam Yeu, have been penetrating deep into China's southern Yunnan province. The teams stayed inside China for as long as four to six months, some penetrating as far north as Kunming. The clandestine reports were sent by lightweight sideband equipment to Nam Yeu for translation and relay to Vientienne, and on to CIA headquarters at McLean, Va.

SEA SAGA— Secret intelligence reports describe what was probably the last naval action of the Vietnam War. Four missile boats, each loaded with two deadly STYX missiles, slipped out of China and crept down the coastline, carefully staying in Chinese territorial waters until they reached some small North Vietnamese islands north of Haiphon. They tried to hide among the islands but failed to escape detection. On December 17, American A- 7 fighter-bombers struck the boats in their hiding places, sinking one and damaging two. The fourth got away.

What's the Law?

The case of the vocal picket

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Mable, who was employed by a department store as a salesgirl, believed that in a union there was strength. Consequently, when her union went out on strike, she rushed right out of the store and onto the picket line. And whenever a customer crossed the line to enter the store, Mabel thought twice before saying only so that she could be doubly insulting when she finally spoke.

The result? When the strike finally ended, so was Mabel's employment. She was fired for having insulted her employer's customers.

"You can't fire someone for participating in a strike," she insisted. "It's against the law."

"That may be," ressonded the employer, "but you weren't bounced because of your participation in the strike. You were let loose because of your loose tongue. Picketing the store was one thing, but saying nasty things to our nice customers was another. In fact, it was a capital offense."

Intent upon regaining her job, Mabel took the matter to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you allow Mabel to be fired for her vocal support of the strike?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Mabel's discharge was not intended as discrimination against her for participating in a strike. She was fired, concluded the judge, for insulting customers without cause which was a valid reason for terminating employment.

Ann Landers

She doesn't like her boss ...and that's that!!

Dear Ann Landers: What can a secretary do about a boss who seems to lie awake nights thinking of small ways to irritate her? When he laughs, the whole building shakes. He pops his chewing gum and cracks his knuckles. Last week he took off his shoes and cracked his toes.

When he talks to me on the intercom he breathes so hard between sentences I want to scream. Sometimes he coughs and wheezes-- all this with a cigar clenched between his teeth so his words are barely intelligible.

Some days when he is extremely busy he will tell me not to put through any calls. Later in the day, when I give him a list of the callers he gets mad and yells, "Why didn't you put Mr. X and Mrs. R through? You should have known those calls were important!" So, in addition to having the patience of a saint, I am expected to be a mind reader. Any suggestions?--- Only Human And That's Not Enough

Dear Only: These small annoyances will loom larger as time goes by. You don't really like this man and I can tell you he is not going to change. So start now to look for another job, Buttercup. You and the boss are incompatible.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a faithful reader. You have helped me with other problems and made my life easier. Please try again.

I am going through the menopause and my husband does not understand why I have lost all interest in sex. I don't know how to tell him. Please help me put it into words. He doesn't have much respect for my judgment, but if YOU say something it will carry weight.--- Can't Find The Words In Long Island

Dear Words: Sorry I'm unable to help you because I don't know the answer. If you are of the opinion that menopausal women just naturally lose interest in sex, let me assure you it is not true. In fact, some women report the opposite.

If you are not seeing a good gynecologist, please run, don't walk, to your family physician. Ask him to give you a complete physical and recommend a doctor who specializes in gynecology. The proper medication might solve your problem.

Dear Ann Landers: You've helped waitresses, salespeople, firemen, police officers, doctors, nurses, homosexuals, kleptomaniacs and meter readers. Will you please say a word to help those of us who drive school buses?

How I wish every parent whose child rides a school bus could spend just one day with me. My major goal is to get their children to their destinations safely. Do you know how difficult this is when dozens of kids are screaming and fighting, knocking each other off the seats and sometimes falling on the driver?

It is not easy to maneuver a bus these days, what with traffic jams, stopping to let some children off and others on--- all the while keeping an eye open for those who insist on running in front of the bus, even though I've asked them dozens of times not to.

Please, Ann, print my letter and suggest that parents discuss my complaints with their children at breakfast or dinner tonight and ask them if they are among the troublemakers.--- J.S.

Dear J.S.: Here's your letter. I'll bet it does some good. But I can't imagine any kid admitting he is a troublemaker. Can you?

Our 'new' apartment

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mrs. Kay Cline, wife of Rep. C.F. Cline, 159th district Democrat in the Missouri House of Representatives writes of life in Jefferson City from woman's point of view.

By KAY CLINE

JEFFERSON CITY— Today I thought I would let you know about the apartment we live in here in Jefferson City.

We came up last November to find a comfortable apartment. C.F.'s secretary, Pauline Matthews, and I spent hours looking in the newspapers, making telephone calls and visiting available apartments around Jefferson city. We found that rent for apartments ranged from $100 to $250 per month. Most neatly furnished apartments rent for $220 per month.

The representatives receive $10 for each day the House of Representatives is in session. This money is to pay for their rent, food and all utilities. It is difficult to stay within that range because rent alone is higher than the $10 per diem.

To stay within that range, we took a small efficiency apartment on the third floor of an old apartment building built in the 1920s

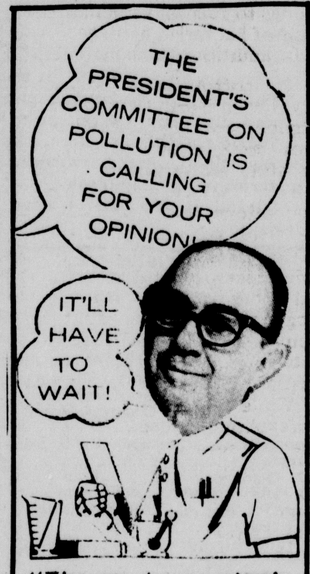
The building has no elevator. When we go to the apartment we enter from the basement, which means we walk up four flights of stairs. There are 16 stairs per flight, and we are exhausted by the time we finally get to our apartment.

Our apartment has a living room- kitchen combination. The furniture is very old (not antiques at all). The kitchen cabinets are very high, especially for me since I am 5 feet tall. I have to get a chair everytime I want something from the cabinet.

The gas stove works at times. There is a small bathroom which has oldtime fixtures. The bedrooms are very small and the beds are uncomfortable. C.F. is too long for a regular sized bed which is inconvenient for him to have his feet hanging over the end.

Steam heat is used to heat the apartment, which is too hot when turned on and too cold when turned off. When it is turned on, it makes a bang, bang, bang, hisss, hisssss noise. At night, if we turn it off we wake up cold, and if it is turned on we wake up hot and sweating.

I have been looking this past week for a new apartment or anything to move into that might be better and within the range of $10 per day. It is a very exasperating and trying experience.



"The most important thing we'll do today is fill your prescription!"

Angus Godwin to appear Thursday

New Madrid — The Southeast Missouri Community Concert Association will bring Angus Godwin's folk music to the New Madrid High School auditorium next Thursday night, according to Mrs. Sam L. Hunter Jr., New Madrid representative of the association.

It is the only concert being offered by the association this season that will be presented in New Madrid.

Godwin's music is the product of a rich and colorful background steeped in grass roots experience and scholarly training. A native of North Carolina, Godwin is of Scottish, English, French and Cherokee Indian descent, and he is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, where he spent four years as a scholarship student.

Despite extensive classical training, his deepest affinity belongs to folk music, a natural result of his varied heritage.

In addition, his experiences as a cotton and tobacco harvester in North Carolina and Virginia, working on a railroad labor crew, cherry picking in the state of Washington, and other widely diverse occupations have led him to the field of folk music and folklore, providing him with a wide repertoire of Appalachian and contemporary American songs, spirituals, the music of Jacques Brel, Rod McKuen and folk songs, in French, German, Russian, Spanish and Hebrew.

While serving in the United States Army in Japan, Godwin directed several choirs, toured with Army shows, sang with a Japanese dance band, and taught courses in English conversation. He has also taught music at the Horace Mann and Rhodes Schools in New York City.

Some of his appearances have included New York's Town Hall, Julius Monk's "Plaza 9 Revue" at the Plaza Hotel in New York, the "Today" Show, Yale University, the Bitter End in New York, the Sherman House in Chicago, Woodstock, New York and in colleges throughout the country.

Fluent in nine languages, the versatile Godwin performs Broadway show tunes as well and has been featured on national radio and television.

SCCHS has outstanding teen-agers

Four Scott County Central High School students have been selected as Outstanding Teen- agers of American for 1973, according to Principal Dolan Rogers.

Selection for the awards' program automatically qualified the students for further state, regional and national honors and scholarships totaling $7,0000. Scott Central nominees are Michelle Pugh, Tanya Johnson, Teresa Lancaster and Ronald Dye.

Nominated by their principals, the Outstanding Teen- agers of America are chosen from schools across the country for excellence in academic achievement and community service. The students will now vie for Outstanding Teen- ager of the Year Trophies to be presented by the state governors.

The 51 state winners will be eligible for awards totalling $7,000. One boy and one girl will be chosen for national scholarships of $1,000 each to be used at the college or university of their choice. Ten regional winners will also be selected from the remaining state winners to receive $500 regional scholarships.

Under the guidance of the Board of Advisors, the program was created to encourage young people to take full advantage of the opportunities in our country. The awards are presented each spring, and biographies of all those honored are recorded in the annual volume of "Outstanding Teen- agers of America".

Heading the board is Doug Blankenship, past president of the United States Jaycees.

Serving with him are:

Mizzou slips to 12th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College basketball purists would love an eventual showdown between UCLA and North Carolina State, both unbeaten and running 1-2 in The Associated Press weekly poll. But it won't happen.

UCLA, with 63 straight victories dating back to 1971, is headed for the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament to defend its national championship. N.C. State won't compete there since the NCAA suspended the school because of alleged recruiting violations.

UCLA, 18-0 this season, retained its No. 1 ranking in The AP poll with 34 of the 35 ballots cast. The holdout vote went to N.C. State's Wolfpack, 19-0 for the season.

Third place belongs to Long Beach State, sporting a 20-1 record, while Minnesota, 15-2, moved up to No. 4.

Marquette, 18-2, picked up a couple of places, moving into the No. 5 slot and North Carolina, 18-4, remained No. 6 despite dropping a three-point decision to N.C. State.

Three new clubs cracked the Top Ten, with Houston and Providence each jumping four spots to No. 7 and No. 8 respectively, and St. John's of New York picking up five notches from No. 14 to No. 9.

Maryland slipped one notch from ninth to No. 10.

Two losses last week tumbled Indiana from fourth to No. 11. Missouri slipped from eighth to No. 12. Jacksonville, Southwestern Louisiana, Kansas State, Memphis State, Alabama, New Mexico, Virginia Tech and Brigham Young complete the Top Twenty.

The Top Twenty, with firstplace votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 2018-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

For the Sportsman

The Mississippi County Recreational Association will have their annual meeting tonight at 7:00 p.m. at the Charleston High School.

The program will include a turkey hunting seminar conducted by John Lewis from Columbia, Missouri. Mr. Lewis is a turkey biologist and an authority on turkey and turkey calls.

Also featured will be A.A. Tooney, a bass guide for 21 years on the T.V.A. lakes. Mr. Tooney has been featured on the Bill Dance television show and has conducted fishing seminars with John Powell. Mr. Tooney now fishes out of Kentucky and Barkely lakes.

The public is invited and no admission will be charged.

The Conservation Commission has set the opening dates for the 1974 and 1975 deer seasons. The season will open Nov. 16, 1974, and Nov. 15, 1975. Both are Saturdays.

The Department of Conservation nursery currently is out of six species of trees, is close to being out of two items, and has a good supply of 12 more.

Deadline for Missouri landowners to order trees is Feb. 15. Conservation agents, most Department offices and most extension offices have order blanks available. Orders are filled on a first come, first serve basis and deliveries are made at the proper planting time.

Species out of stock include Scotch pine, soft maple, cottonwood, dogwood, pecan, and northern red oak. The special beautification and windbreak bundles are in short supply.

Still available are shortleaf and loblolly pine, black walnut, redbud, black locust, pine oak, autumn olive, sycamore, shrub lespedeza, mulberry, and the special game cover bundle.

In 1972, the Department nursery sold 6.6 million trees and shrubs.

Five "walk- in" hunting areas will be added in this year's Missouri wild turkey season April 24- May 6, making a total of 12 such areas.

Walk- in hunting means that the areas are closed to all vehicle traffic. "It's an effort to reward the hunter who enjoys this trophy hunt enough to put out extra effort," says Mike Milonski, Game Division chief for the Department of Conservation.

"The walk- in program has proved popular with turkey hunters in past seasons which is why we're adding new areas this season."

The 12 areas are: Bell Mountain, Peter Cave Hollow, Crane Pond and Ketcherside Mountain in Iron County, Silver Mines in Madison County, Scotia- Marcoot in Dent and Reynolds Counties, Warren Valley in Reynolds County, Natural Bridge in Phelps County, Cane Ridge in Butler and Wayne Counties, Steam Hollow in Howell County, Thompson Hollow in Ozark County and Wooly Creek in Barry County.

Most of the areas are on U.S. Forest Service Land except for Ketcherside Mountain, jointly owned by the Forest Service and the Department of Conservation.

UCLA wins 64th straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lars Hansen received a rather rude introduction to big-time college basketball Monday night.

Hansen, a 6-foot-11 freshman from Coquitlam, British Columbia, was given his first starting assignment by Washington Coach Marv Harshman. The Huskies' opponent? None other than UCLA, the unbeaten, topranked powerhouse which boasts a 6-11 center of its own named Bill Walton, college basketball's player-of-the-year last season.

It started out okay for Hansen, a lean 18-year-old who once scored 69 points in a high school game in Canada. He drew a foul on Walton with his first field goal attempt, then sank his next two tries.

Then Walton took over.

Final score: UCLA 76, Washington 67. And it wasn't even that close.

Walton scored 29 points, grabbed 21 rebounds and was his usual dominating presence on the court as UCLA racked up its 64th consecutive victory and raised its season record to 19-0. The Bruins put the game away in the last five minutes of the first half, outscoring the host Huskies 20-7 to take a 44-26 lead at the half.

"Walton is always the controlling factor in any game we play," observed Bruin Coach John Wooden afterwards. "Our defense was excellent, as it has been all season, until the game was in hand."

For the record, Hansen scored nine points. Senior Louie Nelson was Washington's high scorer with 16, while Keith Wilkes and Larry Farmer each scored 13 for the Bruins.

Southern Cal kept its Pac-8 hopes alive by erasing a 28-25 halftime deficit and pulling away to an 80-63 victory over Washington State.

In the only other game involving a Top Ten team, eighth-rated Providence overpowered Cleveland State 113-79 behind Ernie DiGregorio's 23 points and Marvin Barnes' 20 points and 22 rebounds.

After Cleveland State managed to stay close for about 10 minutes, the Friars broke the game open with a 30-16 burst to take a 53-36 lead at intermission. Providence, 17-2, used reserves much of the second half.

Steve Downing, a 6-9 senior center, poured in 41 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to lead 11th-ranked Indiana to an 87-66 victory over Big Ten rival Illinois.

Orv Salmon sank a pair of free throws with nine seconds to play as 12th-ranked Missouri defeated Oklahoma 64-62 in Big Eight play. The free throws gave Missouri, 17-3 a four-point lead and made a last-second lay-up by Oklahoma's Tom Holland meaningless.

Dwight Lamar and Roy Ebron scored 35 points apiece as 14th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana boosted its record to 19-2 with a 111-96 romp over Texas-Arlington.

Wendel Hudson scored 22 points and grabbed 12 rebounds as No. 17 Alabama beat Georgia 78-67 in a Southeastern Conference battle.

Members of the Chicago White Sox struck out 991 times last season with Dick Allen the leader with 126 whiffs.

Baseball negotiations slow

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's labor problems move into the next inning Friday when the 24 player representatives take a close-up, detailed look at the latest offer of the owners.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said Monday that the offer would probably be turned over to the entire membership — a procedure that could take three weeks and delay the scheduled March 1 opening of training camps.

"In my conversations with many of the player representatives the last few days," said Miller, "there was the feeling expressed that this matter is of sufficient importance to be taken to the entire membership."

Baseballs' latest offer came last Thursday and was accompanied by a directive to all clubs to postpone the early opening of camps scheduled for this week. Traditionally, pitchers and catchers are invited to start training in mid- February with remaining players usually reporting on or about March 1.

Miller called the cancellation of the early opening, "illegal threat of a lockout," and denounced management for the step.

The owners had termed the postponement of the early camps as "a matter of logistics."

Miller was highly critical of the owners' recommendation to settle individual salary disputes by arbitration, an offer described as "a landmark proposal," by John Gaherin, negotiator for management.

Arbitration is only one of the issues in negotiations between the players and owners. Also involved are minimum salaries, the reserve clause binding a player to a club until he is traded, released or retired, and the pension- benefit plan over which the players struck last spring.

Harry S. Truman
Presidential Memorial Medal

PURE .999 SILVER or 24KT GOLD ON SILVER
(LIMIT-ONE OF EACH PER PERSON)

To do honor to one of the great statesmen of modern times, Our Silver Heritage is privileged to announce the issuance for public sale the first edition of a Presidential Memorial Medal carrying the portrait of Harry S. Truman, thirty-third President of the United States of America.

The world will long remember the manifest courage of the little man from Independence, Missouri, who conserved, strengthened, and shaped the enduring structure of freedom in the western world, whose achievements gave him towering stature and signal ranking among the foremost of American Presidents.

We have strived — successfully, we believe — to capture these very qualities of a most uncommon man in the three-quarter portrait that adorns the face of this Presidential Memorial Medal; and the reverse of the medal carries a laurel wreath, oak leaves, and a bayonet, to symbolize Mr. Truman's place in American and world history, which included World War II and the United Nations action in Korea.

This high-relief, frosted proof medallion is available in a choice of the most precious metals — the purest silver available (.999 fine silver) or 24 KT gold on silver.

Each Presidential Memorial Medal will be individually minted to order, in your choice of either solid fine silver or solid 24 KT gold on silver.

May we remind you that nearly all first edition coins of this specialization have particular intrinsic value, and receive studied attention from serious collectors. Consequently, we are limiting the purchase of these Presidential Memorial Medals to one (1) silver, and one (1) 24 KT gold on silver to each buyer.

Census forms due Thursday

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Census Bureau today reminded the nation's businesses which received 1972 Economic Censuses questionnaires a month ago that the firms have little time left to meet the Feb. 15 deadline for the return of the filled- in forms.

The Census Bureau, part of the Commerce Department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration, reports that although hundreds of thousands of the forms have already been mailed back, many forms still must be returned.

The Census Bureau noted that the nation's two million larger business and industrial firms were sent questionnaires and that only a small sample of the remaining three million businesses is involved in the censuses. Most information for this group is being obtained by the Census Bureau from administrative records of other government agencies.

Most large businesses in the following fields were mailed the census questionnaires: manufacturing, mining (including the extracting of petroleum), retail trade, wholesale trade, selected service industries, transportation and construction.

Return envelopes are addressed to the Jeffersonville, Ind., processing office of the bureau where the information is transferred from the questionnaires onto electonic tape. The computer "runs" will be made in the bureau's main office in Suitland, Md., just outside the District of Columbia.

Statistical totals derived from the censuses are used extensively by decision- makers in business and government. They also provide bench mark data for most estimates of industry and business issued between the census at monthly, quarterly or annual intervals. The economic censuses have been recording the growth of American business for decades -- the first Census of Manufactures was taken in 1810 in conjunction with the Third Census of Population.

Firms receiving the questionnaires are required by law to respond. The same census law protects the privacy of all information reported to the Census Bureau by providing that the information (1) may be used only for statistical purposes; (2) may not be published so that data for any business firm can be identified; and, (3) may not be seen by anyone other than sworn census employes. Census reports may not be used for purposes of taxation, investigation or regulation.

Malden discusses buying fire truck

MALDEN— The City Council Monday night discussed the purchase of a new fire truck, considered the possibility of obtaining a new franchise with Associated Natural Gas Co., accepted a bid for gasoline service and agreed to accept bids for workman's compensation and collision insurance for city employes.

Fire Chief J.D. Wagster proposed that the council approve the trading in of two of the old fire trucks toward the purchase of a new fire truck.

He informed the council of the need for a new truck, stating that the two old trucks now stationed at Industrial Park hold only 100 gallons of water and that 90 per cent of the fires are fought with booster tanks. Two of the new fire trucks owned by the city hold 500 and 750 gallons of water.

The council told Wagster to obtain estimates of the cost of a new truck to be presented at a later council meeting.

Bill Stewart, manager of Associated Natural Gas Co. in Malden, asked the council to discuss with officials of the gas company the possibility of obtaining a new franchise. The council agreed to contact the city's bonding representatives, the city engineer and city attorney to discuss the matter.

A bid from Larry McLain's Mobil Service Station at the corner of Route J and Highway 25 for gasoline service was accepted by the council.

The council agreed to accept bids from insurance companies for workman's compensation and comprehensive collision insurance for city employes. Bids will be turned over to the insurance committee and discussed with the insurance companies, then submitted, along with the committee's recommendations, at a later council meeting. Bids are due by May 5.

Deadline for filing for the April 3 city election was set for March 14 at 5 p.m.

Shell heads chronic care task force

MALDEN — Dr. William Shell of Sikeston has been elected chairman and Troy Wilson of Kennett vice chairman of the Chronic Care Task Force of the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council.

Chronic services are those services provided to in-patients suffering from diseases characterized by long duration or frequent recurrence. The task force members discussed the major chronic conditions existing in the Bootheel area, giving top priority to cardio- vascular diseases, cancer, lung diseases and arthritis. It was decided that resources needed in the area are more medical manpower, transportation, health education, day care centers and home health care.

Although the scope of the task force is directed toward solution of in- patient problems, it was noted that much emphasis should be placed on keeping the chronic patient in the home. The task force did, however, recognize the dilemma in which many individuals find themselves caught between demands for bedspace and the necessity for family employment.

Another point emphasized was that costs for in- patient care in facilities such as nursing homes are out of reach for many patients. A major cause of the high prices seems to be incurred through stringent building codes, causing the facilities to charge higher prices to break even.

It was also brought out that, although many patients require admittance to a facility, they do not require the specialized skills which qualify them for Medicare or Medicaid. Many of these patients have no means of payment.

The task force expressed a desire to obtain comments from interested individuals and encourage them to become members of the task force. Interested persons may write Lynn Lancaster, Assistant Director of Comprehensive Health Planning, P. O. Box 397, Malden.

4 accident patients treated

Four accident patients were treated Monday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

They were: Charles W. Meyer, 22, Sikeston, injured arm with broken pool cue; Terry Comstock, 26, Sikeston, stuck piece of steel in hand at work; Susan K. Aaron, 16, Parma, bruised left hip and scalp in fall at home; and Rocky P. Copeland, 16, Morehouse, stuck nail in finger at school.

"WHY SHOULD I PRAY?"

BECAUSE I NEED HELP
BECAUSE I HAVE SINNED
BECAUSE I HAVE PROBLEMS I CAN'T SOLVE
BECAUSE GOD LOVES ME.

"What Does God Say About Prayer?"

ASK, AND IT WILL BE GIVEN YOU;
SEEK, AND YOU WILL FIND;
KNOCK, AND IT WILL BE OPENED TO YOU

FOR EVERYONE WHO ASKS RECEIVES,
AND HE WHO SEEKS FINDS,
AND TO HIM WHO KNOCKS,
IT WILL BE OPENED.

(Matthew 7:7-8)

Prayer can be the difference between Heaven and Hell.

ADDING GRACE and charm to rough and tumble Congress is newcomer Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y.

1. In Memoriam

IN MEMORY of our dear husband and father JAMES (DANNY) KINDER

It's been four years ago today since you were called away, and they say that time heals all sorrow, but each time we visit your grave, the tears still flow and we recall:

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
silent is the voice we loved to hear.
To far away for sight or speech,
but not too far for thought to reach.
Although the flowers upon your grave
did wither and decay,
our love for you who sleeps beneath,
will never fade away.
How sweet to remember him who once was here,
and who, though absent, is just as dear.
As the years roll by and the days pass on,
In our hearts a memory is kept of the one
we loved and shall never forget.

Geniece & Kim Kinder

$1 million sought

Cape fund drive is launched

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Ray W. Call, president and chairman of the board of Missouri Utilities Company, has accepted the task of spearheading the $1 million capital funds campaign of Southeast Missouri Hospital.

The announcement was made Wednesday by Charles A. Hood, president of the hospital's board of trustees. Call was selected for the post of general campaign chairman by a six- member fund- raising committee of the trustees.

As chief executive of the drive, Call will give personal direction and close supervision to the campaign, and will see that it keeps moving throughout the hospital's entire service area, which is inhabited by about 300,000 persons.

Besides Cape Girardeau County, Southeast Missouri Hospital serves Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Stoddard, Bollinger, Madison, and Perry Counties in Missouri. Numerous patients are also attracted to the hospital from the Southern Illinois counies of Union, Jackson, Johnson, Pulaski and Alexander.

In accepting the position of campaign director, Call said, "We all know $1 million is a lot of money. In order to be successful, we must forget all the reasons why we can't, and concentrate on what will contribute to the success of the campaign."

Call said he is in the process of recruiting division chairmen and other key campaign officials which will be announced soon.

The board of trustees of Southeast Missouri Hospital gave the green light for the capital funds campaign several weeks ago. The money raised in the area will be a portion of an estimated $6 million needed to complete a four- stage development program dating back to 1965.

Remainder of the needed funds will come from wills, bequests, trusts, and the hospital's funded depreciation.

Stage One of the development program, which will add 55 maternity and medical- surgical beds and expanded maternity care facilities, is nearing completion.

Stage Two will consist of a new critical care unit and a four- level parking garage to alleviate the acute parking problem at the hospital. Stage Three will be a three- floor addition to the top of the east wing and Stage Four will be renovation of the north wing.

Call, a resident of Cape Girardeau since 1946 and a member of the Southeast Missouri Hospital board of trustees since 1961, is a native of Hoisington, Kan. He came to Cape Girardeau from Dallas, where he was associated with the Texas Power and Light Company.

He has been a member of the board of directors and president of the chamber of commerce, a trustee of the Greater Cape Girardeau Industrial Development Corporation and member of the board of the Cape Girardeau County Crippled Children's Society.

Questionnaires issued to ambulance services

MINER— Questionnaires to be given to area ambulance services were distributed to members of the Emergency Care Services Task Force of the Bootheel Regional Health Council Thursday night at the Ramada Inn.

The questionnaires are designed to help furnish information on what services are available to the public in the six- county area of Southeast Missouri.

Gene Huckstep of Cape Girardeau provided a slide demonstration to the task force on the operation of a free rescue service. Huckstep operates such a service from his body shop in Cape Girardeau.

Huckstep said members of the rescue team work and train together with police and ambulance services. The rescue teams must have a minimal amount of medical training.

Dr. John K. Wallace II of Jefferson City, director of the Bureau of Emergency Services of the State Division of Health, told the task force of the state ambulance plan, in which any political subdivision, such as a city or county, may obtain an ambulance by paying $3,500. The state will pay any remaining costs. Also required is that medical training be obtained by the driver and attendant.

The next task force meeting will be March 15 at the Community Room of the Bank of New Madrid.

Fire district studied

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Residents of rural Cape Girardeau County are faced with the problem of raising $55,000 to finance a new fire department.

Some 60 property owners — without fire protection for almost two months since an old pumper broke down and the County Court failed to include funds for the purchase of new equipment in the 1973 budget — have decided the only solutions are taxation or subscription.

Until recently, the fire protection had been supplied voluntarily by members of the county Civil Defense Unit, but now residents must fend for themselves.

County Auditor H. Weldon Mack estimated a tax levy of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation would provide the money needed. Costs are a new pumper truck at $20,000, a smaller truck for grass fires at $5,000, rental of a building at $3,000 a year and salaries for three full- time firemen at $21,000 annually. An election would be needed for approval of the tax levy.

A steering committee has been appointed to study the financing of neighboring fire districts.

The great weight of the elephant is supported on pillar-like legs and on its feet which are large round pads surrounded by four stubby toes.

Battle lines set

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The lines are drawn in the debate over no-fault insurance plans before the Missouri Legislature.

The no-fault plan would provide payment of limited claims for damages in motor vehicle accidents without proof of fault in a court case.

Representatives of the insurance and legal professions testified Monday night before the Senate Insurance Committee on a bill by Sens. Ralph Uthlaut, R-New Florence, and Don Owens, R-Gerald.

Bogus bills in Springfield

The highway patrol reported this morning that a number of bogus $20 bills have turned up in Springfield. The bills have two different serial numbers. One of them, H34906139A, is identical to the serial numbers on four counterfeit $20 bills passed in Sikeston during the past month.

The patrol quoted the Secret Service as saying a large quantity off counterfeit money is going to be passed in the southwest portion of the state.

If passed, the bond money will be used for purchase and improvements of the site for Arvin Industries and for roads and new sewer lines.

There will be no tax increase with the bond issue, which tentatively is to be submitted to Dexter citizens on March 20.

Attending the meeting were Mayor Willis Conner; Percy Clippard, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce industrial committee; Paul McGhee, city attorney, Chet Medler, president of the Chamber of Commerce; and Stephen Mitchell, chamber member.

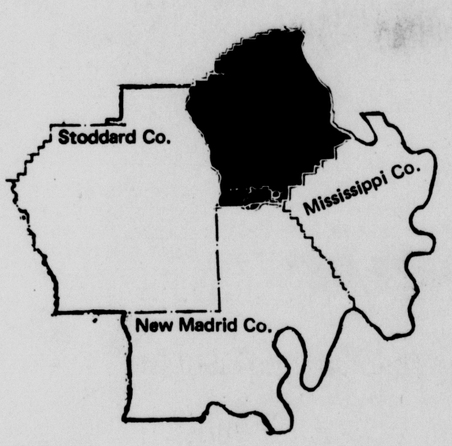
It takes more than banking to make a bank.

Like community leadership



At First National Bank , we think that one of the best ways to serve Sikeston and Southeast Missouri is to take an active and vital interest in them. That's why you'll find our people involved. People like Lee Shell, Immediate past Mayor of Sikeston, Bill Bess, Chairman of the Board of Municipal Utilities, and John Harper, Charter President of Optimist Club of Sikeston are just part of the story of First National Bank's involvement. All our people are leaders, workers, and members of the many different projects and organizations working for the growth, betterment and public good of Sikeston and Southeast Missouri. It's just the way we do things. Past, present, and future.

Like convenient branch office

We opened our Kingsway Facility in 1970 . These offices exist for one reason—to make your banking easier and more convenient. You see, it just follows that if a bank is easier to get to and you get capable, efficient and friendly service, you're going to use that bank. Our customers like it; we think you would, too.

Our loans are helping Sikeston and Southeast Missouri grow into their potential as an even better place to live and work. Many of our local industries, commercial establishments, farming operations, homes and maybe even your own car wouldn't have been possible without assistance from First National Bank. Sure it's our job to lend money, but it takes a genuine concern and interest in the community to really serve it well.

And First National Bank has what it takes.

Like friendly employees

"The Friendly Bank" isn't something we just thought up. We've worked hard for our reputation of pleasant service and friendly employees and we're proud that our customers have given us that name. And we'll always continue to work to make you feel welcome whenever you come in, for whatever you need to do, at any one of our two locations. A smile never did anyone any harm, and that's the way we do our job around here.

Like full service banking

A FULL SERVICE BANK

From personal checking accounts to the most modern, up-to-date trust services; from small personal loans to business loans of over a hundred twenty five thousand dollars, from savings accounts of every description to complete banking service, First National Bank is a Full Service Bank in the truest sense of the term. We've always said that whatever it takes to serve our customers, community and state a little bit better, we'll do it. And that's what we mean when we say First National has what it takes. We have what it takes for you.

ERA advocates suffer another setback

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Advocates of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution suffered another setback in the Missouri Legislature as it was held up in the House while a subcommittee studies Missouri laws on equal rights.

The announcement came at the end of three hours of testimony Monday night by opponents of the measure.

A bill to prevent additional taxation on public utility services was approved today for final consideration in the House.

The bill would keep counties, cities and other political subdivisions from taxing utility revenues in a way that makes the total tax on the service more than the ten per cent authorized. Voter approval would be needed to assess a higher tax.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. George E. Murray, R-Creve Coeur, said it would eliminate a tax on a tax and provide "truth in taxing."

Last week the ERA failed to make it out of a Senate committee and a House Democratic caucus voted not to support it.

Rep. George Dames, D- O'Fallon, who was appointed the subcommittee chairman, said, "this comes as a complete surprise to me ... I hadn't heard anything about this."

Dames said he did not know when the subcommittee's first meeting would be, but said the committee would have to work "pretty fast" to get it out this legislative session.

"It depends on how many men the committee on legislative research assigns to help us," he said.

Rep. Earl L. Schlef, D-Dellwood, who led the House opposition to the amendment, said the referral to a subcommittee was a fatal blow to the ERA.

"I think it's dead," he said. "It's kind of what you'd call studying it to death."

Rep. Sue Shear, D-Clayton, who sponsored the House resolution to approve the amendment, said she did not see the subcommittee referral "as a defeat."

"I think it was an attempt to kill it," she said, "but I don't think it will succeed."

At the end of the hearing, Schlef recommended the appointment of an interim committee to meet after the legislative session to study Missouri laws on discrimination and make its report in January of 1974.

For the ERA to be added to the U.S. Constitution, 38 states must ratify it in the next six years. Twenty-six states have approved it.

Earlier Monday, the House killed a bill to make it a misdemeanor for an employer to default on retirement fund payments for employes, and the Senate approved for final consideration a bill to give the University of Missouri-Rolla the old Division of Geological Survey and Water Resources building in downtown Rolla, and a bill to crack down on criminal conspiracies.

The Geological Survey abandoned the three-story building in Rolla for a new office in Buehler Park. The bill merely transfers title to the University of Missouri curators.

The retirement fund bill, sponsored by Schlef, was defeated on a voice vote after opponents charged it would amount to jailing persons because they failed to pay a debt.

The anti-conspiracy bill, passed 21-8, would "add the tools to fight organized crime," its sponsor, Sen. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington, said.

The bill would make it a felony to "agree, conspire, combine or confederate to commit murder, rape, robbery or arson." An agreement would have to be accompanied by an "overt" act. The punishment would be 2-5 years in prison.

The House readied for final passage bills to include foster care recipients under the list of needy persons receiving medical assistance and to relieve municipalities on the cost of tuberculosis patients by doubling the amount of state aid to $30 per day for treatment.

A bill introduced in the Senate would require public utilities to take steps within three years to recover fees for service or equipment.

Bills introduced in the House would:

—Make it unlawful to make or possess telecommunication or telephone equipment for the purpose of avoiding lawful charges for such service.

—Allow savings and loan associations having capital stock to be incorporated.

—Allow reparation benefits to persons injured in traffic accidents, paid without regard to fault through insurance contracts.

—Require the state to pay the costs of any new expenses put upon political subdivisions as a result of new legislation, when there is no additional source of revenue available for the subdivisions to meet the added costs.

—Make the deadline for payment of commercial vehicle licenses Feb. 15 each year instead of Jan. 15.

Burlison named to appropriation seat

WASHINGTON— Rep. Bill D. Burlison, Missouri 10th District Democrat, appointed to the Subcommittee on Agriculture of the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives, a subcommittee which has jurisdiction over funding of farm programs.

The full Appropriations Committee, on which Burlison now serves, controls the purse strings of the federal government and is considered the most influential of House committees. Appropriations bills originate on the House side of Congress.

Burlison now has the seat once held by the late Clarence Cannon, who holds the record of 41 years servie as a Missouri congressman, many as chairman of the powerful Committee on Appropriations.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton has been named to the Appropriations Committee on the Senate side. "I am honored that this is the first time that Missouri has had both Senate and House representation on appropriations since the late Sen. Harry Truman and Rep. Cannon served in the early 1940s", Burlison said.

As an example of the desirability of the assignment, Burlison pointed to Congresswoman Edith Green, who has been in the House for 18 years and was next in line for chairmanship of the Committee on Education and Labor. She gave up the position this year to start at the bottom of the Appropriations Committee.

"I have accepted the position", Burlison said, "because my four years of experience in the Congress and my discussions with National leaders clearly tell me that I can do more for my district by serving on the committee. And I will have a stronger voice for farmers with selection to the Agriculture Subcommittee. There is also great potential for national leadership," he concluded.

Rejoices at nephew's return

Charleston aunt thanks God for POW's release

CHARLESTON — Col. Robinson Risner, 48, nephew of Mrs. Harry Warren of Route Two, was the first man off the second plane to land at Clark Air Force Base in the Phillipines. And for his aunt, it was a day of thanksgiving.

Risner, missing since his plane failed to return from a mission over North Vietnam in September of 1965, was designated by fellow prisoners to express their gratitude to President Richard Nixon.

"All the men would like to meet you personally and express their gratitude for what you have done," Risner told the President by telephone. Nixon reportedly answered he would make himself available any time after the POWs have had time with their families.

Mrs. Warren did not remember the exact time she heard her nephew was among the first POWs returning from Vietnam, but she said she stayed by her television in hopes of seeing him. "He has changed very little and it was wonderful to see him. I cried all day Monday with happiness not only for him and his family but also for the families of the other men."

Risner's wife Kathleen, who now lives in Oklahoma City with their five sons, was called later Monday by Col. Risner. "He sounded just like himself. I was afraid he would be tense. We weren't. He laughed a lot, she said."

The fighter- bomber pilot, the first person to receive the Air Force Cross while still living, made headlines in 1957 by setting a coast- to-coast and trans- Atlantic speed record in an F-100-F Sabre-Jet.

Councilmen reconsider building of golf course in recreational complex

By RON PORTER

City Council members are quietly reconsidering the feasibility of building a nine-hole golf course in the city's 140- acre recreational development near the airport.

Mayor Frank Ferrell said the primary reason for the reconsideration is the cost of building it.

The complex is being built with a $200,000 federal matching grant. The city must match the grant with its own funds; money which the city is finding difficult to scrape together.

Ferrell described the problem as one of priorities. The baseball diamonds come first, he said, then the tennis courts and then the golf links.

The city does not have an estimate of the golf course cost. However, when applying for federal funds, the city estimated it would cost about $31,000.

Bob Stearnes of the architectural firm of Buchmueller, Whitworth and Foust Inc., who worked on the initial design of the recreational complex, said the estimate does not include the total cost of the course.

The estimate did not include the golf course's share of the park's support facilities, such as utilities, parking lots, roads and landscaping, Stearnes said.

The true cost of the golf course must include a share of the cost of these, Stearnes added. He said he could not give a more accurate estimate of the cost.

Ferrell said lighting might not be installed as a means of cutting down on the cost.

City Manager Jim Huff said the lighting is probably the second biggest expense in building the golf course. The greens would be the most expensive, he said.

Another problem facing the golf course is the problem of maintaining the area. Ferrell said it might cost as much as $20,000 per year for the city to keep the course in playing condition.

Ferrell stressed that the council is still studying the problem and has made no decision yet.

The park will also include tennis courts, baseball diamonds, a fishing lake and picnic areas.

City officials say they hope to have the baseball diamonds in operation by this spring.

Commission seeks bids on Malone work

The Missouri Highway Commission has called for bids on a project to improve 2.5 miles of Highway 62 along East Malone Avenue from Main Street east on Route AA in Miner.

Bids are to be opened at 10 a.m. Feb. 23 in Jefferson City.

The project calls for grading, constructing culverts, traffic signals at the Pine Street intersection and widening and resurfacing the road, along with any incidental work needed.

If the bids are accepted, work probably would be started in the spring and be completed in the fall, according to Lionel Murray, District 10 engineer.

Bids on the project had been called previously but had been rejected because the commission deemed them to be too high. Murray said if the bids are too high this time, the project will probably go back to the drawing boards for redesign.

If this occurs, it will be another two months before a call for new bids can be issued, Murray said.

Kaiser's bond set at $5,000

Bond of $5,000 for Jimmy Kaiser Jr., charged with first degree murder, was set this morning in Magistrate Court by Judge Lloyd Briggs on the recommendation of Stephen L. Taylor, assistant prosecuting attorney.

First degree murder charges were filed against Kaiser, 34, in connection with last Wednesday's shooting death of Carol Alvarez.

Kaiser was taken into custody by sheriff's deputies Wednesday after taking Miss Alvarez to Missouri Delta Community Hospital. He was charged Thursday and has been in the Scott County jail at Benton.

Miss Alvarez, 24, who reportedly had been living with Kaiser at 203 Selma St. in Sikeston was pronounced dead of a bullet wound in the head at 11:40 a.m. Wednesday upon arrival at the hospital.

Kaiser told deputies that he and Miss Alvarez were arguing in his car on Highway 61 between Sikeston and McMullin when she put the gun to her head and shot herself. He said the argument started because she wanted him to return to California.

A charge against Gary Paul Storey, 900 Vernon St., of stealing a car from Earl Singleton on Feb. 2 was continued until Feb. 27.

Rose Turner was sentenced to 60 days in county jail and placed on probation under a parole and probation officer for one year after she pleaded guilty to charges of fighting with Larry White on Jan. 29 at Scott County Central High School.

A preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 20 for White after he pleaded not guilty to fighting with Miss Turner.

Preliminary hearing for Edward Hopgood of Bernie, charged with stealing a car from David Alexander on Oct. 23, was set for March 13 and bond set at $500.

Bond of $500 was set and a preliminary hearing was scheduled on March 13 for Ricky Ayers of Bernie on charges of stealing a car from George A. Norman on Jan. 4.

A preliminary hearing was set on March 13 for Mike Jennings of Bernie and bond was fixed at $500 on charges of stealing two tires and two mag wheels from Satterfield's Auto Repairs on Jan. 1.

After pleading guilty to charges of operating a motor vehicle while operator's license was revoked, Clay Faye Graham was sentenced to 90 days in county jail. Graham is to surrender himself to the sheriff's department on Feb. 20 at 8 a.m.

Case was dismissed on payment of costs by William H. Vaughn on charges of driving while license revoked.

Fred Eugene Morgan of Oran, charged with speeding, was fined $18 and costs.

Chief calls for drug education

NEW MADRID — Education of children and parents and strong law enforcement measures were cited as means of suppressing narcotics by Webster Grovers Police Chief Fred Zinn and Capt. James Seavatta, chief of detectives, who spoke at a public drug abuse program Monday night at New Madrid High School.

Zinn reported on the Turn in a A Pusher (TIP) program used in his city and said that although the program hasn't reduced narcotics, it has sent the pushers away and transferred the drugs to other communities.

Under this program, supported by the Kiwanis Club, an informer is paid $100 if he provides information on which a warrant can be issued for a pusher. Women seem to be the best informers, Zinn said.

"We know how to get people out of town if we can't hook them," Zinn said.

Other successful measures noted by Zinn was undercover work by detectives and police women. Also, the schools now have a deputy juvenile officer and a police detective on duty 40 hours a week.

An educational program has been started in the schools. However, Zinn said the surface has barely been scratched.

"Police officers make better teachers about narcotics and marijuana simply because they know what they are talking about," Zinn said.

Capt. Seavatta listed three basics in dealing with narcotics.

"The people involved in drugs have to know that if they carry drugs, they are going to get arrested. We are not concerned about search and seizure laws We are going to get them.

"Next, if a person voluntarily comes to the police and says they are involved with drugs and that they want to get out, then they must know they won't get "busted".

"You must have a prosecutor who will put these people in jail if they have been picked up for possession more than one time. This is something you have to have.

"Support your police and prosecutor. You can't fool around with drugs in this county," Seavatta said.

During a question and answer period, Seavatta said, "If a parent should discover his child is involved with drugs, the child should be taken to the police department to talk to someone who knows about drugs, not a doctor or a minister, but someone who knows what they are talking about."

At the close of the meeting, Pros. Atty. Hal E. Hunter Jr. thanked the people for coming and said there was a thought the group should take to their kids: "The good Lord gave you one mind and one body to last all of your life. If you misuse it or abuse it, you have shortened the use of that one mind and body you have."

Rotarian Sam Bodine, who was in charge of arrangements, welcomed the crowd of nearly 400 and said the attendance was indicative of the interest in the drug abuse problem.

"Hopefully, we can learn to cooperate and solve our problem for a better community," he added.

Throughout the U. S. today, there is a shortage of the kind of employes for which employers are looking. To be sure, there are some people who do not have jobs -- and many of them wouldn't hold a job if they started on one.

But employers are ready to make an extra effort to find a place in their organizations for the right kind of young man or woman. An Idaho newspaper, a few years ago, described this employe in an editorial entitled, "No Experience Necessary":

"He must have a clean face, clean habits, and a clean heart. Need not know how to roll a cigarette or how beer tastes, and if he's not up to date on all the smutty jokes, his ignorance will be overlooked.

"He must be a boy who treats his mother and sister -- and every other boy's mother and sister -- with respect, and does not refer to his father as the 'old man.'

"He must be truthful, prompt, obedient, and industrious. He must make his employer's interest his interest, and never be afraid of earning more than his wages.

"He is wanted everywhere -- in law, in medical practice, in the counting room, and to run great public works. The people who will pay big salaries are looking for him ..."

What we are trying to say is that the jobs are there, waiting for intelligent, hardworking, energetic young men and women.

Far too many are more concerned over what a job will mean to them rather than what they can mean to the job and to the employer. They somehow forget that employers must make a profit to stay in business, and that their principal task is to insure that the employer does make a profit.

There are plenty of jobs waiting for the right kind of young people. Your attitude toward work determines the degree of success you will achieve.

LASER TO WEED OUT A PEST

A death ray may still belong more to the realm of science fiction than to fact, but a former Army Corps of Engineers scientists has just patented the closest thing to it yet.

Dr. Ralph A. Scott Jr. has invented a device and method for destroying water hyacinths and other water plant pests by means of laser energy. By selection of the proper level of laser energy, weed control may also be effected for land plants, such as along highway and railroad rights of way.

("Put your weapon on 'stun,' Mr. Spock.")

According to Scott, plant life is wilted almost immediately after irradiation, and is completely destroyed in 8 to 12 weeks. Since no chemicals are released into the environment, the problem of air and water polution is avoided.

Today, weeds. Tomorrow ...?

No man ever sells out at his own estimate.

NEW YORK (AP)- Memory is a golden key.

It opens the portal to the past where, row on row, all our yesterdays are stored. Some are lovely, some are drab — but all of them are there.

There is a release and refreshment of the soul in revisiting, now and then, the days that were. The wise man keeps the golden key of memory bright not rusty.

I'd say your key is still pretty bright if you can look back and remember when —

A boy and a girl in love could carve their initials in a tree without upsetting the woodland ecology.

Childhood was more innocent. You could have a fine time chasing cabbage butterflies in a meadow or squirting the hot dust of a rural road between your bare toes on a beautiful summer day.

The only ones absent from church on Sunday were those too sick to go.

If you told your mother you were too ill to go to school, you inevitably had to stay in bed and take a big dose of castor oil. Before anyone in the family ever went to see a doctor about any ailment, he had to give castor oil a chance to work its miracles. The only exception was a broken arm.

No girl who valued her reputation would let herself be seen sitting in the last row of seats in the movie with her beau's arm around her.

A man had a cushy job if he didn't work up a sweat on it six days a week.

Women who prided themselves on never having tasted a drop of liquor in their life sometimes got mildly tipsy in the afternoon drinking a female tonic that contained more alcohol than they knew.

When the lord of the house raised his voice in anger, the cat ran and hid under the bed and the dog tried to paw his way out the back door. But despite this, everyone in the family knew that Mama was the real boss most days.

Anybody who didn't eat three full meals a day was thought to have a finicky appetite.

Anybody who got a passport to visit a foreign country was looked up to in the neighborhood with some awe. Most folks had never traveled more than 100 miles from their birthplace.

Marriages were supposed to last a lifetime—and generally did.

Those were the days — remember?

A LITTLE ENCOURAGEMENT DUE

Cancer is one of the most dreaded of human afflictions that has yet to give up its secret to the curative probing of science. Under a Senate resolution sponsored by Senator Ralph Yarbrough of Texas and 53 other U. S. Senators, a committee of eminent scientists and laymen has been granted the funds to conduct a cancer study and "recommend to the Congress and to the American people what must be done to achieve cures for the major forms of cancer by 1976 ..." The hope of Senator Yarborough and others is that the quest of the committee for a cancer cure might lead "toward the creation of a new administrative agency which would guarantee that the conquest of cancer becomes a highly visible national goals."

The effort of the Senator and his colleagues deserves the highest commendation. But, recognition of congressional good works in this instance is somewhat tempered by the long years of congressional antagonism toward the U. S. prescription drug industry. This industry, by its own research and development efforts, has conquered a good share of the most dreaded diseases of mankind. In 1970, the prescription drug industry will spend over $600 million of its own funds, an amount greater than its probable net income, on medical research. In spite of drug industry research spending, 1969, as a spokesman for the industry observed, "... was the all-time low point in new medicinal product introductions in the United States ..."

Constant harassment of the industry has played no small part in the increasing difficulty of introducing new lifesaving drugs. A new "highly visible" search for a cancer cure might also bring into higher visibility the important of encouraging, rather than discouraging, the industry that has made a business of pushing forward the frontiers of medical knowledge.

THE CLEAM ATOM

Nuclear energy promises to be one of the greatest factors in solving the air and water pollution problem once people accept it fully as an ally in the battle to preserve the environment in the face of rapidly expanding population pressure.

In a region of the country -- Florida -- where each month 10,000 new permanent residents are added to the state's population, a local power company is devoting a major part of a $600 million construction program to the development of a nuclear electric plant. As part of its story of telling people about nuclear energy, it has sent out a release that attempts the most difficult job of describing the atom in terms understandable to the layman. First, it says, "... just how small is an atom? So small that 36 billion - billion could be placed on the head of one pin. It's a tiny world. But only tiny in size. The mass of the atom ... is so dense that if it were the size of a drop of water, it would weigh 2 million tons." The release points out that because of this incredible density there is an enormous amount of energy in an atom. A single small pellet of nuclear fuel -- measuring only seven sixteenths of an inch long and one quater inche in diameter -- is equal to the energy in 100 tons of coal.

It is just such concentration of energy as this that can be the savior of the human race. The day is coming when orthodox means of producing energy would bring insoluble pollution problems. As the power company's release points out, "In a nuclear plant -- powered by the atom -- there is no burning nor any combustion of any kind ... there is no smoke or soot of any kind. There are not even any chimneys." In short, the peaceful use of the atom is an important part of the answer to pollution and the energy requirements of a nation that has neither the desire nor the capacity to turn the clock back 30 or 40 years.

The President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, observing its twentyfifth anniversary this year, enteres its second quater-century of operation with a campaign to remove architectural barriers which hamper the disabled in using public buildings and transportation facilities.

According to Harold Russell, Chairman of the President's Committee, "A large number of handicapped men and women find it impossible to hold jobs because oe environmental and architectural barriers.

Mr. Russell said that each year finds a growing number of employers who are convinced of the business advantages in hiring the handicapped. "Records of productivity, reliability and loyalty, set by the handicapped themselves, provide the convincing evidence," he said.

He summarized the national effort by saying, "This year, let's make the basic question, "Can the man or woman do the job?"

SOME HARSH VIEWS

Nation's Business reports, "Campus turmoil has cut deeply into businessmen's enthusiasm for furthur contributions to colleges." It quotes a number of more or less typical businessmen's reasons for terminating contributions to colleges and universities. I just won't pay to rebuild them." Another businessmen believes business should support only those colleges that teach students "to be better Americans and useful citizens."

These are harse views, coming as they do from business leaders and citizens on whom the U.S. educational system must depend for support. On the other hand, they may result in the raising of educational standards to meet the needs of millions of young and serious Americans onwhose shoulders will fall the responsibility of becoming tomorrow's leaders in business, industry and government.

WE WANT ELECTRICITIY

Writing in Look magazine, Mr. D. Bruce Mansfield discusses "More Electric Power: How on Earth Do We Get It?". At the start, he tells of an amusing incident -- of how his hometown paper carried a story of, "A group yearning to flee the grittier aspects of civilization ..." They publicized their hope to form a commune away from the "modern things that pollute the earth" but, they added a postscript, "We want a place with electricity."

Mr. Mansfield in this simple anecdote shows why environmental purists must eventually -- and the sooner the better -- make their peace on a reasonable basis with technology. The self- defeating conflict between the more extreme environmentalists and public demand for technology's affluence have presented a problem for the electric industry that can hardly be exaggerated. In Mr. Mansfield's words, "It means that we must try to satisfy a public simultaneously demanding vast quantities of low-cost power and perfect reliability while that same public moves militantly to blow power projects and impel the allocation of an ever- larger percentage of the construction dollar to beautification and anti-pollution controls.'

Mr. Mansfield in the course of his discussion reveals both what the power industry has done and is doing in behalf of the ecology, as well as in behalf of producing needed electric energy. He believes the seemingly contradictory needs of man and the environment can be "... served in harmony." He concludes, "If ecologists and technologists will only agree that human beings always come first, we'll find the power and the glory together."

One of the husbands turned to his wife and asked, "Honey, how do you pronounce that Italian dish I'm so crazy about?"

Very dryly his wife answered, "You pronounce it just like it's spelled — Gina Lolobrigida!"

COMMUNIST PROMISES ARE WORTHLESS

The Soviet Union is no longer able to hid the fact that communist promises are worthless. For more than 50 years, communist dictators have had iron control of the nation with the largest area of any on earth and have been promising every five years to ease the weary Russian citizens' dreary existence.

Promises remain unkept and the Russian people continue to live without sufficient clothing, housing and food. It is not just the poor people in Russia who live this way, it is the average citizen. Only the few communist party bosses have luxuries of the kind that our good working people consider necessities of life.

Now the Russian consumer is faced with another sharp cutback in production of goods he has been promised for so long. To help sugar the bad-tasting pill, the controllers of the "planned economy" are raising the minimum wage of Russian workers to $85 per month. That is $85 per month, not $85 per week.

The communist government wishes to increase the population, but a working-class family with two children already is living in one room and sharing bath and kitchen with one or more other families. Under these conditions, it is no wonder why families do not have many more children. The fact is that the communist system simply cannot produce the necessities of life. Freedom enthusiasts can use this ammunition in praising Republic USA and our profit- motive system. HLH

No Skid Rows:
Longshoremen's Chiefs Urging 'Super- Seniority'
For Ex- POWs In Every Industry and NASA

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK-- Once, as president of the Overseas Press Club I introduced to a luncheon audience (which the following session was to hear a New York lawyer, Dick Nixon) that bantam mobile powerhouse, the longshoremen's union chief, Teddy Gleason. He arose, grinned and averred that it wasn't always he could get into a respectable part of town because it wasn't always he had shoes fit to wear-- or any shoes.

Well, if sentiment still is "relevant," all God's children should have such shoes. The worldwide sage of the trip-hammer fight made by Gleason and his executive vice president, Johnny Bowers, to free the prisoners of war should fully be told-- but first there now is his and Bower's newest campaign to fit the freed men into dignified jobs, work, or executive suites commensurate not only with their tortures but with their scientific and aeronautic skills.

Gleason will urge his fellow American union leaders to offer the released war prisoners swift employment as soon as they have recovered and readjusted and he wants them offered a "super- seniority" in any project, in any research and development operation or plant, and in any other skilled plant installation over which labor has jurisdiction or influence.

Most of the prisoners are pilots. Thus, officers. So they are competent mathematicians, swift interpreters of instrument panels, computer programming potentials, chain of command executives and all highly literate.

As the POWs head for the 32 military and naval hospitals in 20 states, Gleason is heading for the AFL— CIO Executive Council's mid- winter session in Bal Harbour, Fla. There within the closed council sessions, in which he sits as a national AFL— CIO vice president, he will move to make this official AFL— CIO policy. In the council there has not been unanimity over support of the war.

There is the so- called "hard hat" bloc, from which Secretary of Labor Pete Brennan comes. And there is the minority "Labor For Peace" group. But Gleason expects little opposition.

"The least we can do is to start the released prisoners, husbands and sons with a seniority equal to the amount of time they spent in those Hanoi prisons, isolation cells, and torture chambers," Teddy said. "Some of them have been in those holes for eight years. I'll go to Red Smith (president of the International Assn. of Machinists) whose union has a lot of the aeronautics and space work.

"To me, the prisoners are heroes. And let's not forget their families and the brutal years which were marked by persecution at home, midnight phone calls calling husbands and sons dirty names, reporting them dead when they were alive."

As Gleason and Bowers see it, there are fine well paying and dignified soul- satisfying jobs available in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and in the aerospace industry, some 75 per cent of which is covered by the Machinists' union.

A huge section of NASA's operations are in inner space. There are hundreds of research and development projects. These researches span the spectrum from aircraft "hovering" to supersonic flights, some four to five times the current speeds.

The developments are anywhere from seal level to the atmosphere. There are experiments in silencing jet engines in short take- off landing (STOL), seeking new options in aeronautics--- which will handle airport congestion as passenger flights increase 50 per cent in the '70s---and there is the outerspace planet exploration project.

Gleason and some Machinists' officials don't foresee the buming of any NASA or aerospace employes. There are at most some 600 returning prisoners now. Many of them will stay in. Many of them will have their own thoughts on business and work.

Some of them may permit the U.S. Labor Dept.'s Employment Service (USES) to help them as the displaced aerospace and engineers were two years ago.

There's $500,000 available for this in the Department. USES men already have made the rounds of receiving hospitals. They talked with teams of doctors, psychiatrists and special Army personnel men and women. But a government operation is a government operation.

Just as Gleason and a special American longshoremen's union team cleared the Saigon docks when they were clogged and heavily pilfered some seven years ago--- so the ammunition and food could be passed along swiftly--- so Gleason wants the POWs' homecoming not to be clogged with red tape.

Teddy and Johnny have little respect for some federal departments. They still recall that the current Secretary of Defense, Elliot Richardson, when he was Undersecretary of State in 1970, told them the Soviets had no influence in Hanoi. That was when they were offering to break their boycott and handle one Russian passenger ship in this harbor in exchange for every five POWs that Moscow could convince Hanoi to release.

Now it is Secretary Richardson's Defense Dept. which is handling the returnees. And the longshoremen leaders are taking no chances. They want to see the POWs' new freedom matched with economic freedom.

The longshoremen leaders don't want any ex- POW some years from now turning up as the tragic hero of some skid-row feature with a "look what happened to this hero" angle.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Army Choppers for Cops?
FAA Standing in the Way

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON— Hundreds of helicopters, most of them perfectly airworthy, have been cosigned to the scrap heap at Davis Montain Air Force Base in Tucson, Ariz., while law enforcement agencies around the country are paying through the nose for new police helicopters.

The police units, with few exceptions, haven't been able to cut through the red tape to acquire surplus military choppers. This is forcing them to buy new helicopters for $60,000 to $100,000 apiece when they could refurbish an old battle chopper for a few thousand dollars.

There is evidence, moreover, that the Federal Aviation Administration is cooperating with the big aircraft manufacturers to keep the bargain surplus helicopters out of police hands. Here's how they work it:

The FAA won't issue certificates of airworthiness for the surplus choppers unless the manufacturers issue new data plates. Bell Helicopter, for example, explains that it cannot determine without a total factory overhaul whether a chopper still meets Bell's specifications.

Bell won't risk damage claims, therefore, by issuing a data plate. Without this, the FAA won't certify the aircraft. And insurance companies won't grant reasonable liability rates without FAA certification.

Representative Ogden Reid, D- N.Y., has suggested in a private letter to FAA Administrator John Shaffer that there is a simple solution. "I have checked with the services involved and have been assured," he wrote, "that the log history of each helicopter is readily available and that either the manufacturer or the FAA could easily determine whether the craft is airworthy from this and some personal inspection...."

Reid suggests suspiciously that FAA's refusal to issue the certificates "is based on a technicality which seems designed to protect the market for new helicopters rather than the public interest."

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

An unpublished study exposes the cozy relationship between the Food and Drug Administration and the businesses it is supposed to oversee.

Such commercial giants as Swift and Company; Smith, Kline and French; and Libby, McNeil and Libby have been able to place top executives in watchdog posts inside the agency.

The study, by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, reveals that some 22 of the FDA's top 54 officials have held key positions in FDA— regulated industries or in front organizations which cater to these industries.

A typical case: Dr. Marion Finkel came from the large drug firm of Merck, Sharp and Dohme to become deputy director of the Bureau of Drugs. She acknowledged to us that she set to work in her new post reviewing four Merck drugs for marketing licenses. Three of the Merck drugs were subsequently approved.

Dr. Ogden Johnson, head of FDA's Division of Nutrition, came from A.E. Staly Manufacturing Co., an Illinois soy product producer, which is actively researching new soy food. At the FDA laboratories under Johnson's control, the FDA currently conducts tests on the nutritional value of soy meal and soy protein.

Other FDA officials intend to return to the drug and food industries when they leave the government. Typical is Dr. Virgil Wodicka, who formerly worked for Hunt-Wesson, Libby and Ralston Purina, but is now FDA's director of the Bureau of Foods. He had made no bones about his plans to return to the industry when his government service is completed. Even the most noble of men might avoid doing battle with a corporation which holds the purse strings to his later employment. Others more inclined to go to the well with big business might even be seduced by what FDA insiders call "the deferred bribe."

INTELLIGENCE ITEMS

SECRET ATTACK— Pathet Lao troops, attacking in battalion strength a few days ago, overran a key U.S. intelligence outpost in the remote northeastern corner of Laos near the Burmese border. Knocked out by the attack was the Central Intelligence Agency's main intelligence base at Nam Yeu for operations into Communist China. Sabotage and reconnaisance teams, operating out of Nam Yeu, have been penetrating deep into China's southern Yunnan province. The teams stayed inside China for as long as four to six months, some penetrating as far north as Kunming. The clandestine reports were sent by lightweight sideband equipment to Nam Yeu for translation and relay to Vientienne, and on to CIA headquarters at McLean, Va.

SEA SAGA— Secret intelligence reports describe what was probably the last naval action of the Vietnam War. Four missile boats, each loaded with two deadly STYX missiles, slipped out of China and crept down the coastline, carefully staying in Chinese territorial waters until they reached some small North Vietnamese islands north of Haiphon. They tried to hide among the islands but failed to escape detection. On December 17, American A- 7 fighter-bombers struck the boats in their hiding places, sinking one and damaging two. The fourth got away.

What's the Law?

The case of the vocal picket

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Mable, who was employed by a department store as a salesgirl, believed that in a union there was strength. Consequently, when her union went out on strike, she rushed right out of the store and onto the picket line. And whenever a customer crossed the line to enter the store, Mabel thought twice before saying only so that she could be doubly insulting when she finally spoke.

The result? When the strike finally ended, so was Mabel's employment. She was fired for having insulted her employer's customers.

"You can't fire someone for participating in a strike," she insisted. "It's against the law."

"That may be," ressonded the employer, "but you weren't bounced because of your participation in the strike. You were let loose because of your loose tongue. Picketing the store was one thing, but saying nasty things to our nice customers was another. In fact, it was a capital offense."

Intent upon regaining her job, Mabel took the matter to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you allow Mabel to be fired for her vocal support of the strike?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that Mabel's discharge was not intended as discrimination against her for participating in a strike. She was fired, concluded the judge, for insulting customers without cause which was a valid reason for terminating employment.

Ann Landers

She doesn't like her boss ...and that's that!!

Dear Ann Landers: What can a secretary do about a boss who seems to lie awake nights thinking of small ways to irritate her? When he laughs, the whole building shakes. He pops his chewing gum and cracks his knuckles. Last week he took off his shoes and cracked his toes.

When he talks to me on the intercom he breathes so hard between sentences I want to scream. Sometimes he coughs and wheezes-- all this with a cigar clenched between his teeth so his words are barely intelligible.

Some days when he is extremely busy he will tell me not to put through any calls. Later in the day, when I give him a list of the callers he gets mad and yells, "Why didn't you put Mr. X and Mrs. R through? You should have known those calls were important!" So, in addition to having the patience of a saint, I am expected to be a mind reader. Any suggestions?--- Only Human And That's Not Enough

Dear Only: These small annoyances will loom larger as time goes by. You don't really like this man and I can tell you he is not going to change. So start now to look for another job, Buttercup. You and the boss are incompatible.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a faithful reader. You have helped me with other problems and made my life easier. Please try again.

I am going through the menopause and my husband does not understand why I have lost all interest in sex. I don't know how to tell him. Please help me put it into words. He doesn't have much respect for my judgment, but if YOU say something it will carry weight.--- Can't Find The Words In Long Island

Dear Words: Sorry I'm unable to help you because I don't know the answer. If you are of the opinion that menopausal women just naturally lose interest in sex, let me assure you it is not true. In fact, some women report the opposite.

If you are not seeing a good gynecologist, please run, don't walk, to your family physician. Ask him to give you a complete physical and recommend a doctor who specializes in gynecology. The proper medication might solve your problem.

Dear Ann Landers: You've helped waitresses, salespeople, firemen, police officers, doctors, nurses, homosexuals, kleptomaniacs and meter readers. Will you please say a word to help those of us who drive school buses?

How I wish every parent whose child rides a school bus could spend just one day with me. My major goal is to get their children to their destinations safely. Do you know how difficult this is when dozens of kids are screaming and fighting, knocking each other off the seats and sometimes falling on the driver?

It is not easy to maneuver a bus these days, what with traffic jams, stopping to let some children off and others on--- all the while keeping an eye open for those who insist on running in front of the bus, even though I've asked them dozens of times not to.

Please, Ann, print my letter and suggest that parents discuss my complaints with their children at breakfast or dinner tonight and ask them if they are among the troublemakers.--- J.S.

Dear J.S.: Here's your letter. I'll bet it does some good. But I can't imagine any kid admitting he is a troublemaker. Can you?

Our 'new' apartment

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mrs. Kay Cline, wife of Rep. C.F. Cline, 159th district Democrat in the Missouri House of Representatives writes of life in Jefferson City from woman's point of view.

By KAY CLINE

JEFFERSON CITY— Today I thought I would let you know about the apartment we live in here in Jefferson City.

We came up last November to find a comfortable apartment. C.F.'s secretary, Pauline Matthews, and I spent hours looking in the newspapers, making telephone calls and visiting available apartments around Jefferson city. We found that rent for apartments ranged from $100 to $250 per month. Most neatly furnished apartments rent for $220 per month.

The representatives receive $10 for each day the House of Representatives is in session. This money is to pay for their rent, food and all utilities. It is difficult to stay within that range because rent alone is higher than the $10 per diem.

To stay within that range, we took a small efficiency apartment on the third floor of an old apartment building built in the 1920s

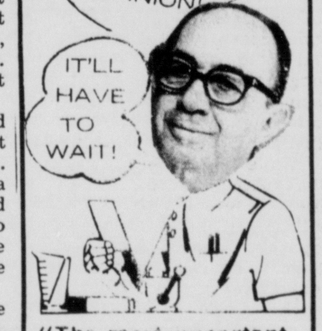
The building has no elevator. When we go to the apartment we enter from the basement, which means we walk up four flights of stairs. There are 16 stairs per flight, and we are exhausted by the time we finally get to our apartment.

Our apartment has a living room- kitchen combination. The furniture is very old (not antiques at all). The kitchen cabinets are very high, especially for me since I am 5 feet tall. I have to get a chair everytime I want something from the cabinet.

The gas stove works at times. There is a small bathroom which has oldtime fixtures. The bedrooms are very small and the beds are uncomfortable. C.F. is too long for a regular sized bed which is inconvenient for him to have his feet hanging over the end.

Steam heat is used to heat the apartment, which is too hot when turned on and too cold when turned off. When it is turned on, it makes a bang, bang, bang, hisss, hisssss noise. At night, if we turn it off we wake up cold, and if it is turned on we wake up hot and sweating.

I have been looking this past week for a new apartment or anything to move into that might be better and within the range of $10 per day. It is a very exasperating and trying experience.



"The most important thing we'll do today is fill your prescription!"

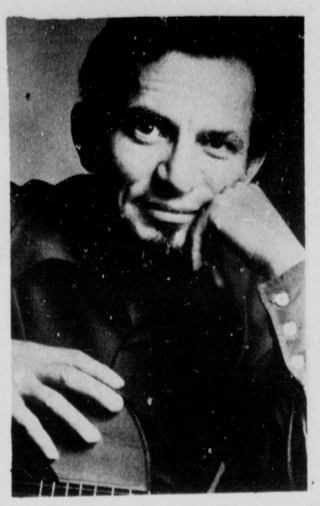
Angus Godwin to appear Thursday



Angus Godwin

New Madrid — The Southeast Missouri Community Concert Association will bring Angus Godwin's folk music to the New Madrid High School auditorium next Thursday night, according to Mrs. Sam L. Hunter Jr., New Madrid representative of the association.

It is the only concert being offered by the association this season that will be presented in New Madrid.

Godwin's music is the product of a rich and colorful background steeped in grass roots experience and scholarly training. A native of North Carolina, Godwin is of Scottish, English, French and Cherokee Indian descent, and he is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, where he spent four years as a scholarship student.

Despite extensive classical training, his deepest affinity belongs to folk music, a natural result of his varied heritage.

In addition, his experiences as a cotton and tobacco harvester in North Carolina and Virginia, working on a railroad labor crew, cherry picking in the state of Washington, and other widely diverse occupations have led him to the field of folk music and folklore, providing him with a wide repertoire of Appalachian and contemporary American songs, spirituals, the music of Jacques Brel, Rod McKuen and folk songs, in French, German, Russian, Spanish and Hebrew.

While serving in the United States Army in Japan, Godwin directed several choirs, toured with Army shows, sang with a Japanese dance band, and taught courses in English conversation. He has also taught music at the Horace Mann and Rhodes Schools in New York City.

Some of his appearances have included New York's Town Hall, Julius Monk's "Plaza 9 Revue" at the Plaza Hotel in New York, the "Today" Show, Yale University, the Bitter End in New York, the Sherman House in Chicago, Woodstock, New York and in colleges throughout the country.

Fluent in nine languages, the versatile Godwin performs Broadway show tunes as well and has been featured on national radio and television.

Cottey College representative visits Sikeston Thursday

Miss Sally Seater, field representative for Cottey College at Nevada, Mo., will be in Sikeston Wednesday to speak to members of the PEO sisterhood, a philanthropic educational organization of more than 178,000 women in the U.S. and Canada who have owned and supported the college since 1927.

PEO members will hold a workshop at the home of Mrs. Bill Burch, 658 N. Ranney at 1:30 p.m. Miss Seater will also meet with a group of high school girls at the home of Mrs. Manuel Drumm, 4 Cotton Trace, to discuss college opportunities at Cottey College.

Cottey College, a two-year liberal arts college for women, was founded in 1884 and has a student body of 350 young women from all sections of the country. Many graduates transfer to four- year colleges throughout the country and to foreign countries to participate in the Third- Year Abroad program.

Miss Seater, a 1969 graduate of the college, earned her bachelor of science degree at University of Wisconsin in Madison, Wis.

Honor roll revised

HOWARDVILLE — The Howardville Middle School has submitted a revised copy of students listed on the first semester honor roll.

Added to the list of eighth grade students was Judy Lawson and deleted was Baron Duff.

Omitted from the list of seventh graders were: Kim Mainord, Dalton Minton, Linda Ponder, Tammy Savat and Brenda Thompson.

SCCHS has outstanding teen-agers

Four Scott County Central High School students have been selected as Outstanding Teen- agers of American for 1973, according to Principal Dolan Rogers.

Selection for the awards' program automatically qualified the students for further state, regional and national honors and scholarships totaling $7,0000. Scott Central nominees are Michelle Pugh, Tanya Johnson, Teresa Lancaster and Ronald Dye.

Nominated by their principals, the Outstanding Teen- agers of America are chosen from schools across the country for excellence in academic achievement and community service. The students will now vie for Outstanding Teen- ager of the Year Trophies to be presented by the state governors.

The 51 state winners will be eligible for awards totalling $7,000. One boy and one girl will be chosen for national scholarships of $1,000 each to be used at the college or university of their choice. Ten regional winners will also be selected from the remaining state winners to receive $500 regional scholarships.

Under the guidance of the Board of Advisors, the program was created to encourage young people to take full advantage of the opportunities in our country. The awards are presented each spring, and biographies of all those honored are recorded in the annual volume of "Outstanding Teen- agers of America".

Heading the board is Doug Blankenship, past president of the United States Jaycees.

Serving with him are:

Mary P. Allen, director of public information, American Vocational Association; Harry A. Applegate, executive director, DECA, Inc.; Mrs. Lillian Andrews, national civic leader; Trudy D. Farrand, editorial director of Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine.

Mizzou slips to 12th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College basketball purists would love an eventual showdown between UCLA and North Carolina State, both unbeaten and running 1-2 in The Associated Press weekly poll. But it won't happen.

UCLA, with 63 straight victories dating back to 1971, is headed for the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament to defend its national championship. N.C. State won't compete there since the NCAA suspended the school because of alleged recruiting violations.

UCLA, 18-0 this season, retained its No. 1 ranking in The AP poll with 34 of the 35 ballots cast. The holdout vote went to N.C. State's Wolfpack, 19-0 for the season.

Third place belongs to Long Beach State, sporting a 20-1 record, while Minnesota, 15-2, moved up to No. 4.

Marquette, 18-2, picked up a couple of places, moving into the No. 5 slot and North Carolina, 18-4, remained No. 6 despite dropping a three-point decision to N.C. State.

Three new clubs cracked the Top Ten, with Houston and Providence each jumping four spots to No. 7 and No. 8 respectively, and St. John's of New York picking up five notches from No. 14 to No. 9.

Maryland slipped one notch from ninth to No. 10.

Two losses last week tumbled Indiana from fourth to No. 11. Missouri slipped from eighth to No. 12. Jacksonville, Southwestern Louisiana, Kansas State, Memphis State, Alabama, New Mexico, Virginia Tech and Brigham Young complete the Top Twenty.

For the Sportsman

by Fred Copeland

The Mississippi County Recreational Association will have their annual meeting tonight at 7:00 p.m. at the Charleston High School.

The program will include a turkey hunting seminar conducted by John Lewis from Columbia, Missouri. Mr. Lewis is a turkey biologist and an authority on turkey and turkey calls.

Also featured will be A.A. Tooney, a bass guide for 21 years on the T.V.A. lakes. Mr. Tooney has been featured on the Bill Dance television show and has conducted fishing seminars with John Powell. Mr. Tooney now fishes out of Kentucky and Barkely lakes.

The public is invited and no admission will be charged.

The Conservation Commission has set the opening dates for the 1974 and 1975 deer seasons. The season will open Nov. 16, 1974, and Nov. 15, 1975. Both are Saturdays.

The Department of Conservation nursery currently is out of six species of trees, is close to being out of two items, and has a good supply of 12 more.

Deadline for Missouri landowners to order trees is Feb. 15. Conservation agents, most Department offices and most extension offices have order blanks available. Orders are filled on a first come, first serve basis and deliveries are made at the proper planting time.

Species out of stock include Scotch pine, soft maple, cottonwood, dogwood, pecan, and northern red oak. The special beautification and windbreak bundles are in short supply.

Still available are shortleaf and loblolly pine, black walnut, redbud, black locust, pine oak, autumn olive, sycamore, shrub lespedeza, mulberry, and the special game cover bundle.

In 1972, the Department nursery sold 6.6 million trees and shrubs.

Five "walk- in" hunting areas will be added in this year's Missouri wild turkey season April 24- May 6, making a total of 12 such areas.

Walk- in hunting means that the areas are closed to all vehicle traffic. "It's an effort to reward the hunter who enjoys this trophy hunt enough to put out extra effort," says Mike Milonski, Game Division chief for the Department of Conservation.

"The walk- in program has proved popular with turkey hunters in past seasons which is why we're adding new areas this season."

The 12 areas are: Bell Mountain, Peter Cave Hollow, Crane Pond and Ketcherside Mountain in Iron County, Silver Mines in Madison County, Scotia- Marcoot in Dent and Reynolds Counties, Warren Valley in Reynolds County, Natural Bridge in Phelps County, Cane Ridge in Butler and Wayne Counties, Steam Hollow in Howell County, Thompson Hollow in Ozark County and Wooly Creek in Barry County.

Most of the areas are on U.S. Forest Service Land except for Ketcherside Mountain, jointly owned by the Forest Service and the Department of Conservation.

UCLA wins 64th straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lars Hansen received a rather rude introduction to big-time college basketball Monday night.

Hansen, a 6-foot-11 freshman from Coquitlam, British Columbia, was given his first starting assignment by Washington Coach Marv Harshman. The Huskies' opponent? None other than UCLA, the unbeaten, topranked powerhouse which boasts a 6-11 center of its own named Bill Walton, college basketball's player-of-the-year last season.

It started out okay for Hansen, a lean 18-year-old who once scored 69 points in a high school game in Canada. He drew a foul on Walton with his first field goal attempt, then sank his next two tries.

Then Walton took over.

Final score: UCLA 76, Washington 67. And it wasn't even that close.

Walton scored 29 points, grabbed 21 rebounds and was his usual dominating presence on the court as UCLA racked up its 64th consecutive victory and raised its season record to 19-0. The Bruins put the game away in the last five minutes of the first half, outscoring the host Huskies 20-7 to take a 44-26 lead at the half.

"Walton is always the controlling factor in any game we play," observed Bruin Coach John Wooden afterwards. "Our defense was excellent, as it has been all season, until the game was in hand."

For the record, Hansen scored nine points. Senior Louie Nelson was Washington's high scorer with 16, while Keith Wilkes and Larry Farmer each scored 13 for the Bruins.

Southern Cal kept its Pac-8 hopes alive by erasing a 28-25 halftime deficit and pulling away to an 80-63 victory over Washington State.

In the only other game involving a Top Ten team, eighth-rated Providence overpowered Cleveland State 113-79 behind Ernie DiGregorio's 23 points and Marvin Barnes' 20 points and 22 rebounds.

After Cleveland State managed to stay close for about 10 minutes, the Friars broke the game open with a 30-16 burst to take a 53-36 lead at intermission. Providence, 17-2, used reserves much of the second half.

Steve Downing, a 6-9 senior center, poured in 41 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to lead 11th-ranked Indiana to an 87-66 victory over Big Ten rival Illinois.

Orv Salmon sank a pair of free throws with nine seconds to play as 12th-ranked Missouri defeated Oklahoma 64-62 in Big Eight play. The free throws gave Missouri, 17-3 a four-point lead and made a last-second lay-up by Oklahoma's Tom Holland meaningless.

Dwight Lamar and Roy Ebron scored 35 points apiece as 14th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana boosted its record to 19-2 with a 111-96 romp over Texas-Arlington.

Wendel Hudson scored 22 points and grabbed 12 rebounds as No. 17 Alabama beat Georgia 78-67 in a Southeastern Conference battle.

Members of the Chicago White Sox struck out 991 times last season with Dick Allen the leader with 126 whiffs.

Baseball negotiations slow

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's labor problems move into the next inning Friday when the 24 player representatives take a close-up, detailed look at the latest offer of the owners.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said Monday that the offer would probably be turned over to the entire membership — a procedure that could take three weeks and delay the scheduled March 1 opening of training camps.

"In my conversations with many of the player representatives the last few days," said Miller, "there was the feeling expressed that this matter is of sufficient importance to be taken to the entire membership."

Baseballs' latest offer came last Thursday and was accompanied by a directive to all clubs to postpone the early opening of camps scheduled for this week. Traditionally, pitchers and catchers are invited to start training in mid- February with remaining players usually reporting on or about March 1.

Miller called the cancellation of the early opening, "illegal threat of a lockout," and denounced management for the step.

The owners had termed the postponement of the early camps as "a matter of logistics."

Miller was highly critical of the owners' recommendation to settle individual salary disputes by arbitration, an offer described as "a landmark proposal," by John Gaherin, negotiator for management.

Arbitration is only one of the issues in negotiations between the players and owners. Also involved are minimum salaries, the reserve clause binding a player to a club until he is traded, released or retired, and the pension- benefit plan over which the players struck last spring.

Harry S. Truman
Presidential Memorial Medal

PURE .999 SILVER or 24KT GOLD ON SILVER
(LIMIT-ONE OF EACH PER PERSON)

To do honor to one of the great statesmen of modern times, Our Silver Heritage is privileged to announce the issuance for public sale the first edition of a Presidential Memorial Medal carrying the portrait of Harry S. Truman, thirty-third President of the United States of America.

The world will long remember the manifest courage of the little man from Independence, Missouri, who conserved, strengthened, and shaped the enduring structure of freedom in the western world, whose achievements gave him towering stature and signal ranking among the foremost of American Presidents.

We have strived — successfully, we believe — to capture these very qualities of a most uncommon man in the three-quarter portrait that adorns the face of this Presidential Memorial Medal; and the reverse of the medal carries a laurel wreath, oak leaves, and a bayonet, to symbolize Mr. Truman's place in American and world history, which included World War II and the United Nations action in Korea.

This high-relief, frosted proof medallion is available in a choice of the most precious metals — the purest silver available (.999 fine silver) or 24 KT gold on silver.

Each Presidential Memorial Medal will be individually minted to order, in your choice of either solid fine silver or solid 24 KT gold on silver.

May we remind you that nearly all first edition coins of this specialization have particular intrinsic value, and receive studied attention from serious collectors. Consequently, we are limiting the purchase of these Presidential Memorial Medals to one (1) silver, and one (1) 24 KT gold on silver to each buyer.

Census forms due Thursday

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Census Bureau today reminded the nation's businesses which received 1972 Economic Censuses questionnaires a month ago that the firms have little time left to meet the Feb. 15 deadline for the return of the filled- in forms.

The Census Bureau, part of the Commerce Department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration, reports that although hundreds of thousands of the forms have already been mailed back, many forms still must be returned.

The Census Bureau noted that the nation's two million larger business and industrial firms were sent questionnaires and that only a small sample of the remaining three million businesses is involved in the censuses. Most information for this group is being obtained by the Census Bureau from administrative records of other government agencies.

Most large businesses in the following fields were mailed the census questionnaires: manufacturing, mining (including the extracting of petroleum), retail trade, wholesale trade, selected service industries, transportation and construction.

Return envelopes are addressed to the Jeffersonville, Ind., processing office of the bureau where the information is transferred from the questionnaires onto electonic tape. The computer "runs" will be made in the bureau's main office in Suitland, Md., just outside the District of Columbia.

Statistical totals derived from the censuses are used extensively by decision- makers in business and government. They also provide bench mark data for most estimates of industry and business issued between the census at monthly, quarterly or annual intervals. The economic censuses have been recording the growth of American business for decades -- the first Census of Manufactures was taken in 1810 in conjunction with the Third Census of Population.

Firms receiving the questionnaires are required by law to respond. The same census law protects the privacy of all information reported to the Census Bureau by providing that the information (1) may be used only for statistical purposes; (2) may not be published so that data for any business firm can be identified; and, (3) may not be seen by anyone other than sworn census employes. Census reports may not be used for purposes of taxation, investigation or regulation.

Malden discusses buying fire truck

MALDEN— The City Council Monday night discussed the purchase of a new fire truck, considered the possibility of obtaining a new franchise with Associated Natural Gas Co., accepted a bid for gasoline service and agreed to accept bids for workman's compensation and collision insurance for city employes.

Fire Chief J.D. Wagster proposed that the council approve the trading in of two of the old fire trucks toward the purchase of a new fire truck.

He informed the council of the need for a new truck, stating that the two old trucks now stationed at Industrial Park hold only 100 gallons of water and that 90 per cent of the fires are fought with booster tanks. Two of the new fire trucks owned by the city hold 500 and 750 gallons of water.

The council told Wagster to obtain estimates of the cost of a new truck to be presented at a later council meeting.

Bill Stewart, manager of Associated Natural Gas Co. in Malden, asked the council to discuss with officials of the gas company the possibility of obtaining a new franchise. The council agreed to contact the city's bonding representatives, the city engineer and city attorney to discuss the matter.

A bid from Larry McLain's Mobil Service Station at the corner of Route J and Highway 25 for gasoline service was accepted by the council.

The council agreed to accept bids from insurance companies for workman's compensation and comprehensive collision insurance for city employes. Bids will be turned over to the insurance committee and discussed with the insurance companies, then submitted, along with the committee's recommendations, at a later council meeting. Bids are due by May 5.

Deadline for filing for the April 3 city election was set for March 14 at 5 p.m.

Shell heads chronic care task force

MALDEN — Dr. William Shell of Sikeston has been elected chairman and Troy Wilson of Kennett vice chairman of the Chronic Care Task Force of the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council.

Chronic services are those services provided to in-patients suffering from diseases characterized by long duration or frequent recurrence. The task force members discussed the major chronic conditions existing in the Bootheel area, giving top priority to cardio- vascular diseases, cancer, lung diseases and arthritis. It was decided that resources needed in the area are more medical manpower, transportation, health education, day care centers and home health care.

Although the scope of the task force is directed toward solution of in- patient problems, it was noted that much emphasis should be placed on keeping the chronic patient in the home. The task force did, however, recognize the dilemma in which many individuals find themselves caught between demands for bedspace and the necessity for family employment.

Another point emphasized was that costs for in- patient care in facilities such as nursing homes are out of reach for many patients. A major cause of the high prices seems to be incurred through stringent building codes, causing the facilities to charge higher prices to break even.

It was also brought out that, although many patients require admittance to a facility, they do not require the specialized skills which qualify them for Medicare or Medicaid. Many of these patients have no means of payment.

The task force expressed a desire to obtain comments from interested individuals and encourage them to become members of the task force. Interested persons may write Lynn Lancaster, Assistant Director of Comprehensive Health Planning, P. O. Box 397, Malden.

ADDING GRACE and charm to rough and tumble Congress is newcomer Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y.

1. In Memoriam

IN MEMORY of our dear husband and father JAMES (DANNY) KINDER

It's been four years ago today since you were called away, and they say that time heals all sorrow, but each time we visit your grave, the tears still flow and we recall:

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
silent is the voice we loved to hear.
To far away for sight or speech,
but not too far for thought to reach.
Although the flowers upon your grave
did wither and decay,
our love for you who sleeps beneath,
will never fade away.
How sweet to remember him who once was here,
and who, though absent, is just as dear.
As the years roll by and the days pass on,
In our hearts a memory is kept of the one
we loved and shall never forget.

Geniece & Kim Kinder

$1 million sought

Cape fund drive is launched

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Ray W. Call, president and chairman of the board of Missouri Utilities Company, has accepted the task of spearheading the $1 million capital funds campaign of Southeast Missouri Hospital.

The announcement was made Wednesday by Charles A. Hood, president of the hospital's board of trustees. Call was selected for the post of general campaign chairman by a six- member fund- raising committee of the trustees.

As chief executive of the drive, Call will give personal direction and close supervision to the campaign, and will see that it keeps moving throughout the hospital's entire service area, which is inhabited by about 300,000 persons.

Besides Cape Girardeau County, Southeast Missouri Hospital serves Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Stoddard, Bollinger, Madison, and Perry Counties in Missouri. Numerous patients are also attracted to the hospital from the Southern Illinois counies of Union, Jackson, Johnson, Pulaski and Alexander.

In accepting the position of campaign director, Call said, "We all know $1 million is a lot of money. In order to be successful, we must forget all the reasons why we can't, and concentrate on what will contribute to the success of the campaign."

Call said he is in the process of recruiting division chairmen and other key campaign officials which will be announced soon.

The board of trustees of Southeast Missouri Hospital gave the green light for the capital funds campaign several weeks ago. The money raised in the area will be a portion of an estimated $6 million needed to complete a four- stage development program dating back to 1965.

Remainder of the needed funds will come from wills, bequests, trusts, and the hospital's funded depreciation.

Stage One of the development program, which will add 55 maternity and medical- surgical beds and expanded maternity care facilities, is nearing completion.

Stage Two will consist of a new critical care unit and a four- level parking garage to alleviate the acute parking problem at the hospital. Stage Three will be a three- floor addition to the top of the east wing and Stage Four will be renovation of the north wing.

Call, a resident of Cape Girardeau since 1946 and a member of the Southeast Missouri Hospital board of trustees since 1961, is a native of Hoisington, Kan. He came to Cape Girardeau from Dallas, where he was associated with the Texas Power and Light Company.

He has been a member of the board of directors and president of the chamber of commerce, a trustee of the Greater Cape Girardeau Industrial Development Corporation and member of the board of the Cape Girardeau County Crippled Children's Society.

Questionnaires issued to ambulance services

MINER— Questionnaires to be given to area ambulance services were distributed to members of the Emergency Care Services Task Force of the Bootheel Regional Health Council Thursday night at the Ramada Inn.

The questionnaires are designed to help furnish information on what services are available to the public in the six- county area of Southeast Missouri.

Gene Huckstep of Cape Girardeau provided a slide demonstration to the task force on the operation of a free rescue service. Huckstep operates such a service from his body shop in Cape Girardeau.

Huckstep said members of the rescue team work and train together with police and ambulance services. The rescue teams must have a minimal amount of medical training.

Dr. John K. Wallace II of Jefferson City, director of the Bureau of Emergency Services of the State Division of Health, told the task force of the state ambulance plan, in which any political subdivision, such as a city or county, may obtain an ambulance by paying $3,500. The state will pay any remaining costs. Also required is that medical training be obtained by the driver and attendant.

The next task force meeting will be March 15 at the Community Room of the Bank of New Madrid.

Battle lines set

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The lines are drawn in the debate over no-fault insurance plans before the Missouri Legislature.

The no-fault plan would provide payment of limited claims for damages in motor vehicle accidents without proof of fault in a court case.

Representatives of the insurance and legal professions testified Monday night before the Senate Insurance Committee on a bill by Sens. Ralph Uthlaut, R-New Florence, and Don Owens, R-Gerald.

Bogus bills in Springfield

The highway patrol reported this morning that a number of bogus $20 bills have turned up in Springfield. The bills have two different serial numbers. One of them, H34906139A, is identical to the serial numbers on four counterfeit $20 bills passed in Sikeston during the past month.

The patrol quoted the Secret Service as saying a large quantity off counterfeit money is going to be passed in the southwest portion of the state.

IDC approves Arvin bond

DEXTER — The Industrial Development Commission of the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development has approved the submitting of a $100,000 general obligation bond issue to the voters of Dexter for financing development of the Arvin industrial project site.

The approval was granted Saturday at a meeting in St. Louis.

If passed, the bond money will be used for purchase and improvements of the site for Arvin Industries and for roads and new sewer lines.

There will be no tax increase with the bond issue, which tentatively is to be submitted to Dexter citizens on March 20.

Attending the meeting were Mayor Willis Conner; Percy Clippard, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce industrial committee; Paul McGhee, city attorney, Chet Medler, president of the Chamber of Commerce; and Stephen Mitchell, chamber member.

Fire district studied

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Residents of rural Cape Girardeau County are faced with the problem of raising $55,000 to finance a new fire department.

Some 60 property owners — without fire protection for almost two months since an old pumper broke down and the County Court failed to include funds for the purchase of new equipment in the 1973 budget — have decided the only solutions are taxation or subscription.

Until recently, the fire protection had been supplied voluntarily by members of the county Civil Defense Unit, but now residents must fend for themselves.

County Auditor H. Weldon Mack estimated a tax levy of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation would provide the money needed. Costs are a new pumper truck at $20,000, a smaller truck for grass fires at $5,000, rental of a building at $3,000 a year and salaries for three full- time firemen at $21,000 annually. An election would be needed for approval of the tax levy.

A steering committee has been appointed to study the financing of neighboring fire districts.

The great weight of the elephant is supported on pillar-like legs and on its feet which are large round pads surrounded by four stubby toes.

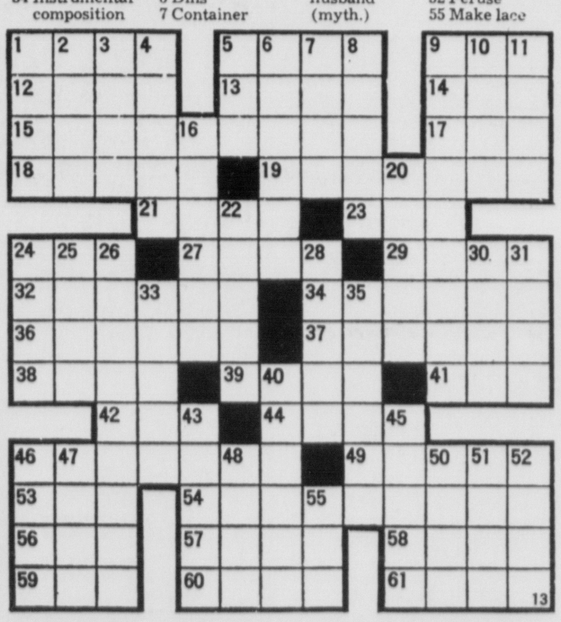
Answer to Previous Puzzle

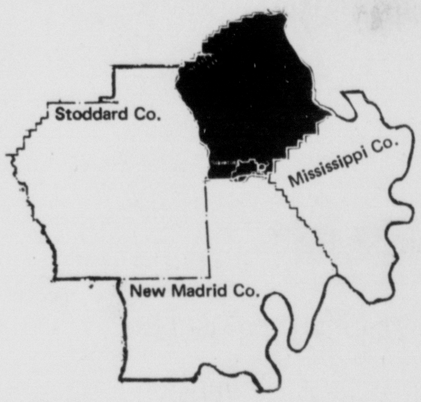


THE RYATTS by Jack Elrod

BEETLE BAILEY by Mort Walker

It takes more than banking to make a bank.

Like community leadership

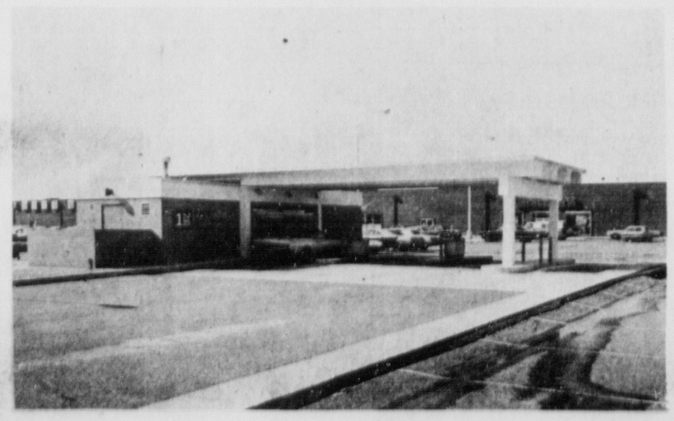


At First National Bank , we think that one of the best ways to serve Sikeston and Southeast Missouri is to take an active and vital interest in them. That's why you'll find our people involved. People like Lee Shell, Immediate past Mayor of Sikeston, Bill Bess, Chairman of the Board of Municipal Utilities, and John Harper, Charter President of Optimist Club of Sikeston are just part of the story of First National Bank's involvement. All our people are leaders, workers, and members of the many different projects and organizations working for the growth, betterment and public good of Sikeston and Southeast Missouri. It's just the way we do things. Past, present, and future.

Like convenient branch office

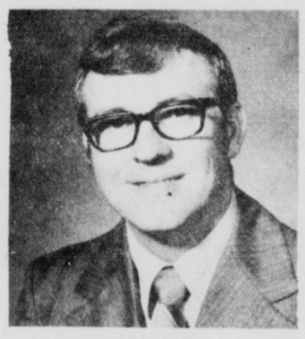
We opened our Kingsway Facility in 1970 . These offices exist for one reason—to make your banking easier and more convenient. You see, it just follows that if a bank is easier to get to and you get capable, efficient and friendly service, you're going to use that bank. Our customers like it; we think you would, too.

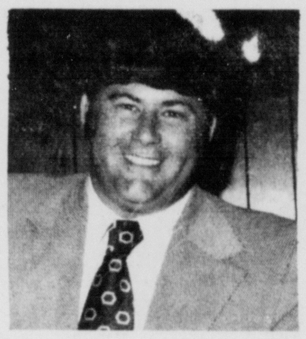
Our loans are helping Sikeston and Southeast Missouri grow into their potential as an even better place to live and work. Many of our local industries, commercial establishments, farming operations, homes and maybe even your own car wouldn't have been possible without assistance from First National Bank. Sure it's our job to lend money, but it takes a genuine concern and interest in the community to really serve it well.



And First National Bank has what it takes.

Like friendly employees





"The Friendly Bank" isn't something we just thought up. We've worked hard for our reputation of pleasant service and friendly employees and we're proud that our customers have given us that name. And we'll always continue to work to make you feel welcome whenever you come in, for whatever you need to do, at any one of our two locations. A smile never did anyone any harm, and that's the way we do our job around here.

Like full service banking

A FULL SERVICE BANK

From personal checking accounts to the most modern, up-to-date trust services; from small personal loans to business loans of over a hundred twenty five thousand dollars, from savings accounts of every description to complete banking service, First National Bank is a Full Service Bank in the truest sense of the term. We've always said that whatever it takes to serve our customers, community and state a little bit better, we'll do it. And that's what we mean when we say First National has what it takes. We have what it takes for you.
